EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THE small pox still rages in Canada.

HURON has been chosen as the temporary capital of North Dakota.

THE income of the publisher of the Philadelphia Ledger is $1 200 per day.

CHAIRMAN HENSEL should climb a tree at once and pull the tree up after him.

GALUSHA GROW is dissatisfied because Pennsylvania don't give 81,000 every year.

"CLEVELAND'S BACKBONE" is the subject of an article in the Washington Sunday Gazette. It is a weak affair.

THE last spike on the Canada Pacific railroad was driven on Tuesday, the 3d, at Tarwell, on the Columbia river.

THE Democrats cheated in Jersey City, N. J., but nevertheless the Republicans made gains.

IF Governor Hill of New York wants to find the man who elected him, let him send his card up to Uncle Dana.

THAT ship Dolphin has proven to be a veritable white elephant to Democracy and helped to swell Quay's majority in Pennsylvania.

OLD Mr. Tilden is said to look fifteen years younger since the Democratic victory in New York. If this is correct he cannot look much over 185 at this time.

THE President says he is delighted with the result in New York. Why shouldn't he be? He got his vote in without being challenged on the ground that he wasn't a male citizen.

PROBABLY the weather will never improve until that man Hazen is turned out of the Signal Service. His presence there is enough to justify the meanest sort of weather.

MR. BARTHOLDI, the Frenchman who designed the statue of Liberty, to be erected in New York harbor, arrived in this country on Wednesday, the 4th. He expresses satisfaction with the progress made on the pedestal.

A LINGERING suspicion fills the mind of somebody that Queen Victoria is giving aid and encouragement to Prince Alexander of Bulgaria in his daring grab of Roumelian territory. The Queen indignantly denies it.

CHARLES PENNOCK TASKER, a brilliant young society man of Philadelphia who had all the money he wanted, is charged with forging the names of his grandfather and uncle to a note for $5,000. He will be taken to task(er) for it.

THE South is solid and is going to remain so. The only question for the Northern States to determine is how many of them will add their electoral votes to the 153 of the South in electing a President who is acceptable to that section.

THE monument erected near New York City to the memory of Major Andre, the Revolutionary spy, has at length met the fate which was predicted for it. It has been blown up by dynamite. It was foolish to erect a monument to our enemy.

THE Zoological Society in Philadelphia is in financial straits and the public-spirited men of the city must come to the rescue if the zoological gardens are to remain. This will be done, as Philadelphia is one of the most public-spirited cities.

A CORRECT count of the vote in Cincinnati would give all of the Republican Senators of Hamilton county certificates of election, and a correct count by the court is hoped for. Testimony strongly in favor of such results seems to be abundant and convincing.

THE State printer has got so far along in the work of publishing the laws passed by the last Legislature that he promises that they will be ready for the public this week. While the appearance of this year's volume of pamphlet laws is better late than never, it would have been still better if made at least three months ago.

The Elections, and the Lessons they Teach.

Every Republican has excellent reason to congratulate himself on the result of the elections which occurred on the 3d instant. To be sure, Democrats have also exhibited a sort of unnatural, forced exultation, although the reason for it cannot be conceived. We call our readers attention to the facts.

Pennsylvania gave the largest Republican majority that was given by any State, where there was a real pitched battle. With it and the southern states no proper comparison can be instituted for in some of the latter no opposition was given to Democracy, the Republicans not considering it worth while to make nominations Even Democrats could ask no fairer comparison of votes than with that in this State in 1883, when Livsey and Powell were the candidates. Then the Republican majority was 20,011; this year, which was marked by unusual apathy, the majority is 43,827, more than double that of 1883. This is a victory for Republican principles.

Almost equally marked is the victory in New Jersey in the control of both branches of the legislature, which the Democrats have held so tenaciously. A Republican United States Senator will be the result, and one that will be gladly hailed.

The real truth is that the Republicans of New York State did not have a candidate who was calculated to excite enthusiasm. There are in that State also an unusually large number of cranky Republicans, whom the voters are entirely too prone to listen to. Hill, the Democratic candidate, was a trained and able politician. His majority, not more than 12,000, is surprisingly small, while that of Jones, for lieutenant governor, is not more than 4,000. New York Republicans, with a due regard for principles and less attention given to spiteful, disappointed, fossilized leaders, will win every time.

The Bay State came bounding down the Atlantic coast with one of her old time Republican majorities—22,000 Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Nevada, Colorado and Connecticut joined the chorus and are all Republican.

Somebody seemed to expect that Virginia would redeem herself this year A truly commendable effort was made to defeat the saddle bags of the greatest confederate general of the Rebellion. But it failed, and we do not regret it The sooner the North realizes that the South is solid and intends to remain so, the better it will be. The only salvation for the country and the only mode of putting an end to the disfranchisement of the colored voter in the South is for the North to be solid also. The Negro is worth more to his master now than he was before the War, because, while he can be counted now for a basis for a representative in Congress he dare not vote against that representative, even if he wishes to do so.

If the North will not unite in forcing the South to rectify this wrong, the oppressed people of that section may indeed have good reason to rise in open warfare. "There is no way," says Senator Mahone, "there can be no way out of this hateful bondage as long as it is upheld by our "society," our press and pulpit except that through war and revolution. Ah, we have hoped and labored for this these many years and we now despair. We have warned; we have cried aloud and spared not; but the appliances and means at the command of Bourbonism have counterveiled all our alarms, all our appeals to right, truth and reason, and all our entreaties in the name of the Prince of Peace and Good Will. This last resort is all we see left, unless the God of Justice shall interpose by ways we wot not of."

Therefore, if the solidity of the South will result in cementing the Republican North, we shall be glad.

THE Saskatchewan half-breeds now confined in prison at Regina and Stony Mountain, Manitoba, for complicity in the late rebellion, have sent to the Dominion Government a most piteous appeal for mercy. The document is signed by Louis Riel and about twenty other prisoners, the latter confined for various terms of from one to seven years. Riel had been a rebel before, and the disaffeced naturally looked to him for leadership in the last uprising for their rights. Whatever may be done with the leader, Riel, the Dominion Government certainly is most heartless if it refused clemency to the other offenders.

Centre County Politics.

The ordinary observer of political events in Centre county cannot fail to notice that there is a sure and gradual weakening of the Democratic party in the county and an increase in Republican strength. To what is this due? We do not believe that it can be attributed largely to management on the part of Republican leaders, because the leaders of the minority party in this county have never pursued very certain tactics or a very aggressive, united warfare, much as those measures were necessary. In making progress the Republicans have perhaps encountered more opposition than the Democratic party, for the reason that the principle Prohibition and Greenback strength has been drawn from Republican ranks, and at the last election if these "wandering sheep" had remained within the fold the Democratic majority would scarcely have exceeded one hundred, putting the two great parties on almost an even footing.

We believe this waning of radicalism in Democracy and increase of Republican strength is largely due to the wise influence of the Republican county papers. Extreme partisan Republicans have grown impatient with the BELLEFONTE REPUBICAN on the plea that its Republicanism was not sufficiently aggressive, and we understand that the new element that has stepped into the field is to proceed on the plea of the necessity for a bold, aggressive party radicalism. If this is the tactics pursued, we predict, with all due respect to the opinions of others, that the ground gained will be lost and Democracy will regain its old-time dominancy and daring. The policy of the Republican papers of this county has been to teach Republican principles pure and simple from a correct standpoint. When the Democratic papers have stooped to heap up vilification and abuse, with great nonchalance the Republicans have show them wherein they were wrong, and have kept their tempers. This policy has almost worked the disintegration of Centre county Democracy. The young men of that party are being influenced by Republican ideas, and it is not too much to say that with a continuance of this policy another year would witness Democracy's defeat.

What will be the effect of a new mode of warfare? Something more aggressive is dearly longed for by Democratic leaders—something that they can use to whip the rank and file again into the ranks. Attempt any personal attacks, any extreme, foolish utterances and the average Democrat will at once retire into the shell of prejudice which he has kept around him for so many years. We hope our fellow-Republicans, who doubtless mean well, but who are verdant and inexperienced, will not attempt any imprudent, absurd measures and thus ruin the work of the past fifteen years, now when the fruit is about to be gathered. This is an important subject for all lovers of the grand old party to consider.

Some Business Notes.

We desire to keep our readers informed in regard to the present condition and outlook of business, which is considered quite favorable by some, while others do not see much promise in it. The Philadelphia Press, we believe, treats the subject in a calm and unbiased manner and on Monday, the 9th, remarked: Several facts last week were unfavorable to the general conviction that the improvement in trade through September and October is to continue. Orders for the leading manufactured staples are lacking in the markets which distribute them; raw materials are falling; at least one large railroad, the Pennsylvania, has reduced its dividend, and, in spite of a new trunk line arrangement, shipments East promise too little business to keep the peace between roads which must have more freight or starve. Lastly, the stockmarket has reached a position where nearly all shrewd judges—who have been wrong, by the way, in every one of their predictions for ninety days—think a reaction is inevitable.

None the less, the public persuasion of increasing improvement remains unshaken, and we are inclined to agree with it. Eddies and setbacks there will be, and those of the Winter may be serious, but much unites to indicate that the preliminaries to prosperity in 1886 are now in progress. Six months ago it appeared not improbable that the assembly of Congress would find the Federal treasury approaching a silver basis. Instead, the net gold reserve over $100,000,000 has risen from $39,392,000 in May, to $69,888 000 November 1; the proportion of gold certificates in payments of New York customs has risen from about one-third to nearly three-fourths, and the pyament of duties in silver certificates fallen month by month from 41 per cent. in April to 11 per cent. in October, while the Treasury stock of silver dollars has been reduced by issuing no bills under $5 and forcing the cart-wheel dollars on the market.

These changes for the better would mean little if they were not accompanied by corresponding alterations in the general banking situation. The movement of currency from New York City, the weekly changes in the bank statement there and the steady advance in aggregate Clearing-house exchanges all correspond with like changes in 1878 preparatory to the boom of 1879. The radical difference—a difference which must not be lost sight of and which sobers the expectations of all who understand it—is that exports were, for three years before the last great revival, greater than imports, and that exports are and have been for some time miserable. With large exports a money stringency leads to the import of gold and an advance in prices. This result, from the advance in the money market now apparently likely, is far less probable now.

What Does the President Mean?

Two acts or expressions of President Cleveland during the past week the Philadelphia Press calls attention to and says that they will do much to make the country doubt his intelligent grasp of the civil service problem, if they do not justify positive distrust of his sincerity. The first was his selection of his new Civil Service Commissioners, and the second was his astonishing apology for Sterling, the disreputable politician whose recent appointment as weigher created such disgust and indignation in New York.

Mr. Cleveland's proceedings in the case of Mr. Edgerton was characteristic of his raw, inexperienced methods. He never saw Mr. Edgerton till the day before he appointed him Civil Service Commissioner; he knew very little about the man; he did not understand his qualities or his antecedents; but he was favorably impressed in a first talk of half an hour or so, and thereupon appointed him off-hand to one of the most important places under the government! It ought in fairness to be added that Chief Justice Waite is said to have recommended Edgerton, but he also had the endorsement of Vice president Hendricks and other spoil Lunting politicians who are the known and avowed enemies of the civil service law.

As a matter of fact Edgerton is seventy years of age which is itself a sufficient disqualification for this post. He has never been in any way identified with civil service reform, and has never shown the attributes which are needed in the work. He was a village alderman who had once served a brief period in Congress; but he was unknown outside of his own locality, and had no public standing, and least of all any tangible and proved devotion to the cause. We can well understand the report that where he is known his nomination is received with mild amazement. It may well be everywhere. The civil service law and reform are on trial with a desperate struggle before them. They will be compelled to sustain the most violent, persistent and crafty assaults from the spoilsmen all over the land. The organized force of the Democratic party is implacably against them. Their successful maintenance demands that the administration of the law shall be in the hands of Commissioners who will execute it with intelligence, courage and firmness. This necessity was palpable to every reflecting friend of the reform; and yet when the President should have given the country a man whose very name would have been a guaranty of this intrepid mastery of the law he appoints a septuagenarian who has never given the slightest evidence that he possesses these qualifications. His second Commissioner gives better promise, but he must also be taken on trust.

Not less surprising is the fact that the President should go out of his way to make a public expression concerning Sterling, and an expression of such a character! He pleads that Sterling, since his appointment in defiance of law, has passed an examination with others and that he ought to have a chance. The evidence is that he was one of the lowest of a list of forty who were pronounced eligible. But no matter; behind and beyond that point is the fact that he is a disreputable ward heeler who has long been engaged in the most scurvy political performances and who was appointed as a reward for this low service. Respecting such a character the President should at least have been silent; certainly not an apologist!

WHAT an awful experience of the perils of the sea was that of the people on board the schooner Holant, on the way from Labrador with survivors of the late shipwrecks on that coast. There were sixty persons on board, and at 7 o'clock in the evening they struck on the rocks, tearing a great hole in the bottom, through which the water poured into the vessel. For nineteen hours the passengers kept her afloat with two pumps and baling with everything they could find which would lift water. All this time they were running before a fierce gale, past a rock-bound coast, until at last they ran into Trinity bay with eight feet of water in the hold of their vessel, and succeeded in beaching her upon a sandy shore, and saving their lives. It will be long before any of them forget that voyage.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR-ELECT JONES, of New York, gives the following snub to the Mugwumps: "We have no sooner inaugurated our Democratic President than these gentlemen come forward and assume not only to dictate the policy of the Administration, but to hold offices. At the same time they do not claim to have any sympathy with Democratic principles. The masses of the Democratic party were well satisfied that this unwelcome alliance should terminate, and our friends of an hour left us, and the victory of Tuesday last has shown us that we can get along very well, indeed, without them." Now that the Democratic party has voluntarily threw these gentlemen overboard, we would like to know where they will go to next. Guess they'll have to roost by themselves.

REV. WALDO MESSAROS, the pastor of a church in Philadelphia, and Joseph Chadwick, editor of the Media Record, are angry at each other and are saying ungentlemanly things. Especially is this true of Mr. Chadwick. We are sorry that the press and pulpit so bitterly disagree, and are inclined to take the side of the pulpit in this instance. From what we have heard of Rev. Waldo Messaros we are inclined to admire him. Of course, he is not orthodox religiously, but when he was unable longer to agree with Presbyterianism he frankly said so and retired from connection with that church. We advise Chadwick to let the reverend gentleman severely alone.

THE medical profession in New York are much scandalized because certain eminent men among them have been exposed in "booming" patent medicines by written endorsements thereof, for which, of course, they receive handsome financial rewards. To make the matter still worse, the stuff puffed was coca extract in different forms—about the most dangerous drug yet introduced, which brings physical as well as mental paralysis, and brings those so unfortunate as to acquire an appetite for it down to the level of brutes.

THE Independent Republican papers in New York City opposed Blaine and supported Davenport. Blaine received 15,000 more votes than Davenport. We are sorry that either of these gentleman were defeated, but it shows that the magnetic qualities of the Plumed Knight attracted votes against great and combined opposition, and there is nothing the Democrats so much dread as the renomination of Blaine. Hundreds of workingmen who voted for Cleveland have since vowed that never again will they vote for a Democratic President.

PRESIDENT GREVY, of France has had a slight attack of apoplexy, which renders it certain that he cannot be re-elected. His septenate will expire on the 30th of next January, and then the Legislative body will have to choose another executive. Let us hope that a man will be chosen who will be as safe, as moderate and as faithful to real republicanism as Grevy.

GOV. PATTISON has followed President Cleveland in declaring Thursday, Nov. 26, a day of thanksgiving and prayer.

Poetry.

FOR ALL WHO DIE.

[The following poem was regarded by Edgar A. Poe as the most beautiful and touching of its kind in the language.]

It hath been said for all who die
There is a tear,
Some panting, bleeding heart to sigh
O'er every bier;
But in that hour of pain and dread
Who will draw near
Around my rumble couch and shed
One farewell tear.

Who ll watch the fast departing ray
In deep despair,
And sooth the spirit on its way
With holy prayer?
What mourner round my couch will come
In words of woe
And follow me to my long home,
Solemn and slow?

When lying on my earthly bed
In icy sleep,
Wh then by pure affection led
Will come and weep?
By the pale moon implant the rose
Upon my breast,
And bid it cheer my dark repose,
My lonely rest?

Could I but know when I am sleeping
Low in the ground,
One faithful heart would then be keeping
Watch all around,
And if some gem lay shrined beneath
That cold sod's gloom,
'Twould mitigate the pangs of death
And light the tomb.

Yes, in that hour if I could feel
From halls of glee
And beauty's pressure on would steal
In secrecy
And come and sit or stand by me
In night's deep noon,
O, I would ask of memory
No other boon.

But ah, a loueliei fate is mine,
A deeper woe.
From all I've loved in youth's sweet time
I soon must go
Draw round me my pale robes of white,
In a dark spot
To sleep thro' death's long, dreamless night,
Lone and forgot.

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

Is life worth living? Ask the lad
Barefooted, homeless, starved, ill-clad,
And hear the answer you will get,
"My dorg an' me has fun—you bet."

Is life worth living? Ask the wretch
Upon the gallows doomed to stretch
The hangman's rope, and hear him cry,
"It is! It is! Don't let me die."

Is life worth living? Ask the tramp
Whose home's the gutter cold and damp
And hear him tell you with a jerk,
"It is, old pard, for I don't work,"

Is life worth living? Ask the dude
Whom old Dame Nature somewhat spewed
And see him suck his cane and say,
"Aw—weally—life is——aw—quite gay."

Is life worth living? Ask the fool,
The giggling maiden fresh from school,
The toiler, invalid, the slave,
O! life, sweet life, they ever crave,

Is life worth living? Ask the wise
Philosopher who vainly tries
To solve the mystery about
The matter and—remains in doubt.

Is life worth living? Ask the great,
The millionaires, the kings in state,
And note their looks of utter woe
As in despair they shriek: "No! no!"

Our Story Teller.

Her Wages.

A STORY FOR HUSBANDS AND WIVES.

From the Phrenological Journal.

"Well, Nettie, what do want?" said Mr Jarvis to his wife, who stood looking rather anxiously at him after he had paid his hands their week's wages.

"Why, Donald," said she, "I thought as I had worked for you all the week that I would come for my wages, too. You pay Jane two dollars a week; surely I earn that, and I would like very much to have it as my own."

"Pshaw, Nettie, how ridiculous you talk. You know that all I have belongs to you and the children. And don't I furnish the house with everything? What under the sun would you do with the money if you had it?"

"I know, Donald, that you buy the necessaries for us, and I am willing that you should do so still, but I should like a little money of my very own. We have been married fifteen years, and during all that time I do not seem to have earned a dollars. As far as money is concerned I might as well be a slave. I cannot buy a quart of berries or a book without asking you for the money, and I should like to be a little more independent."

Mr. Jarvis, proprietor of Jarvis' mills, worth thousands and thousands of dollars laughed, derisively.

"You're a fine one to talk of independence," he said. "If you would start out to make your living you'd fetch up in the poor house soon enough for what could you do to earn a living? The girls in the factory know how to do their work, and they earn their wages. When I have paid them off my duty is done, but I have to board and clothe you and take care of you when you are sick. If I had to do that for the girls I would have precious little money left, can tell you.

"Donald, I gave up a good trade when I married you. For five years I had supported myself by it, and many a time since I have envied myself the purse of those days. As for my not earning anything now, I leave it for you to say whether it would be possible for another to take my place. And how much do you suppose it would cost to do without me a year? I know the girls have little after paying their expenses, but they enjoy that little so much! Allie Watson supports herself and mother with her wages, and they both dress better than I do. Jennie Hart is helping her father pay the mortgage on the farm, and she is happy that she can do so. Even Jane, the kitchen girl, has more freedom than I, for out of her own money she is laying by presents for her relatives, and will send them Christmas. Yesterday an Indian woman was at the house with such handsome bead-work to sell, and though I wanted some very much, I had not a dollar! I felt like crying when Jane bought half a dozen of the articles I wanted so much. You often say that all you have is mine, but five dollars would have given me more pleasure yesterday than your hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property did."

"No doubt of that, Mrs. Jarvis. You have no idea of the value of money, and would have enjoyed buying a lot of bead trash that would not be worth a cent to anybody. Jane needs a guardian if she fools away her money like that. She will be in the county poorhouse yet if she don't look out. It's very lucky indeed that the men do hold the money, for there is not one woman in a hundred who knows how to use it!"

"For shame, Donald Jarvis! You know better. Look at Jerry and Milly Cregg, will you, and say that he makes the best use of his money. She is at home with her parents every night, making her wages go as far as possible toward making them comfortable, while he is carousing in the village, wasting his time and money and making a brute of himself besides. And why does Mrs. Sarton come to receive her husband's wages herself? Because he cannot get by the saloon with money in his pocket; and if she did not get the money they would all go hungry to bed after his wages were paid. And I believe that every woman who earns money here spends it as wisely as the average man; and I have yet to hear of one of them being in debt."

Mr. Jarvis knew that he could not gainsay a word his wife had said for they were all true. Luckily, he thought of Jane.

"Well, how much do you suppose Jane will have left when New Year comes? If she got sick, how long could she pay for such care as you have?"

"It is not likely she will lay up many dollars out of one hundred a year, but she is laying up something better, I think. Last winter she sent her mother a warm shawl and a pair of shoes, to her brother and sister new school books, and the warm loving letters they send her do her more good than twice the amount of money in the bank would. This year she is laying away a number of useful and pretty things for them; and if any misfortune should happen Jane, they will only be too glad to help her."

"Well, who do you suppose would help you if you needed help?" said Mr. Jarvis for want of a better question. Mrs. Jarvis' eyes sparkled angrily as she answered:

"Nobody. If you should lose your property to-day I should be a beggar, without a claim upon anybody for help. You have always held your purse strings so tightly that it has been hard enough to ask for my own necessaries, leaving others out altogether. Many a time a dollar or two would have enabled me to do some poor man or woman untold good; but, although you have always said that all your property was mine, I never could and cannot now command a dollar of it."

"Lucky you couldn't if you wanted to spend it on beggars."

"Donald, you know that I would spend money as wisely as you do. Who was it that only last week gave a poor lame beggar five dollars to pay his fare to Burton, and saw him throw his crutches away and make for the nearest saloon? Your wife could not do worse if trusted with a few dollars. You say the money is all mine, yet you spend as you please, while I can not spend a dollar without asking for it and telling what I want it for. Any beggar can get it in the same way. Christmas you bought presents for us and expected us to be grateful for them; a shawl for me, the very color I cannot wear, a set of furs for Lucy that she did not need, a drum for Robin that has been a nuisance ever since, and a lot of worthless toys that are broken up in a week. There were forty or fifty dollars of my money just the same as thrown away, yet when I ask you to trust me with two dollars a week you cannot imagine what use I have for it, and fear it would be wasted. I am sure I could not spend fifty dollars more foolishly if I tried to."

"Well," snapped the proprietor, "I guess it is my own money, and I can spend it as I please. I guess you'll know it, too, when you get another present."

"Oh, it is your money, then. I understood you to say it was all mine, and so pretended to protest against your spending it so foolishly. If it is your own, of course you have a right to spend it as you please; but it seems to me that a woman who left parents and brothers and sisters and all her friends to make a home for you among strangers, a woman who has given her whole life to you for fifteen years, may be looked upon with as much favor as you give to beggars, who are very likely to be impostors. I know that you seldom turn them off without help. Perhaps I would be more successful if I appealed to you as a beggar. I might say, 'Kind sir, please allow me out of your abundant means a small pittance for my comfort.' It is true I have enough to eat, and do not suffer for clothing; but although I work for my master from morning till night, and, if his children happen to be sick, from night till morning again, yet he does not pay me as much as he does his cook, and I am often greatly distressed for want of a trifling sum which he would not mind giving to a perfect stranger. The other day while he was away from home I had to go to the next station to see a dear friend who was ill, and—not having a dollar of my own—I was obliged to borrow the money from his cook. I was so mortified! And not long since the berry-woman came with such nice berries to sell, and my little girl, who was not well, wanted some very badly, but I had not even five cents to pay for a handful for her. Yesterday a friend came to ask me to assist in a work of charity. It was a worthy object, and I longed so much to give a little money for so good a purpose; but though the wife of so rich a man, I had no money. Of course, I might ask my husband for money; and if I told him what I wanted of it, and he approved of my purpose and was in good humor, he would give it to me; but, sir, it is terrible slavish to have to do so, even if I could run to him every time I wanted anything. People say I am a fortunate women because I am rich; but I often envy the factory girls their ability to earn and spend their own money. And sometimes I get so wild thinking of my helplessness that if it was not for my children I think I would drop into the river and end it all."

"Nettie! Nettie Jarvis! What are you saying?" cried the startled husband at last, for the far away look in her eyes, as if she did not see him, but was looking to some higher power to help her touched his pride if it did not his heart, for he hada great deal of pride in a selfish sort of way. He was proud to be able to support his family as well as he did. He was proud that when his children needed new shoes he could tell his wife to take them to Crispin's and get what they needed. He did it with a flourish. He was not one of the stingy kind; he liked to spend money; and when Nettie, who was once the most spirited young lady of his acquaintance, came meekly to him for a dress or cloak, he was sometimes tempted to refuse her money just to show her how helpless she was without him. Yes, he was proud of his family and wanted them to feel how much they depended upon him. He would have felt aggravated if anyone had left his wife a legacy, thus allowing her to be free in her purse. The idea of her earning money, as his other work folks did, never entered his mind. He "supported her;" that was his idea of their relations! He never had thought that any other woman would have wanted big pay for doing it. He had even thought himself very generous for allowing her money to get things to make the family comfortable. Things began to look differently to him just now. Could it be that he was not generous, not even just, to his wife? Had he paid her so poorly for her fifteen years of faithful labor for him that if she had been obliged to begin the world for herself that day it would have been as a penniless woman?

How fast he thought, standing there at the office window, looking down at the little houses where the mill hands lived. Could it be that he was not as good a man as he thought? He had felt deeply the wrongs of the slave, whose labors had been appropriated by their masters, and when a negro who had worked twenty years for his master before the emancipation freed him came to Jarvis's mills penniless and friendless the heart of the proprietor swelled with indignation at such injustice. He was eloquent on the subject at home and abroad about how any one could be so cruel and selfish as to commit such an outrage against justice. He had called him a robber many a time, and now Donald Jarvis looked to himself very much like the old slaveholder! Massa Brown had taken the proceeds of Cuffee's labor for his own without even a "thank you" for it. True, when Cuffee ate he had given him food, when he was sick he had given him medicine, and he had clothed him, too, just as he himself thought best. Mr. Jarvis had married a lovely, conscientious woman, and for fifteen years had appropriated her labors. Her recompense had been food and clothes, such as he thought best for her; a little better than Cuffee's perhaps, but the similarity of the cases did not please him. He had expected his wife to be very grateful for what he had done for her, but now he wondered that she had not rebelled long ago. Had his life been a mistake? Had his wife no more money or liberty than Cuffee had in bondage? Was Donald Jarvis no better than Massa Brown?

His brain seemed to be in a muddle, and he looked so strangely that his wife, anxious to break the spell, took his arm, saying, "Let us go home; tea must be waiting for us." He put on his hat in a dreamy way and then walked home in silence. The children ran joyously to meet them. The yard was so fresh and green and the flowers so many and bright that he wondered he had never thanked Nettie for them all. Hitherto he had looked upon them as his, but now he felt that his interest in them was only a few dollars that would not have amounted to anything without his wife's care. His children were tidy and sweet, and everything around and in the house had that cheery look that rested him so after the hard dull day at the mill. They sat again at the table that had been a source of comfort and pleasure to him for so many years, and he wondered how he could have enjoyed it so long without even thanking the woman who had provided it. True, she had used his money in bringing it all about; but how else could his money be of use to him? Who else could have turned it into just what he needed for years? And he began to have an undefined feeling that it took more than money to make a home. He glanced at his wife's face as he buttered his last slice of bread. It was not that of the fair, rosy bride whom he had brought to the mills years before, but at that moment he realized that it was far more dear to him, for he realized that she had given him the bloom and freshness of her youth to make his home what it was. His daughters had her rose leaf cheeks, his sons her youthful beauty; all had their cheerful, winsome ways, and comforted him now as she had in those days when, hardly knowing what care meant, she had lived for him alone. And a new thought came to him: Who was comforting her, now she had so much care? Was not that what he had promised to do when he brought her from her old home? He sighed as he thought how far he had drifted from her while in bondage equal to Cuffee's. Nay, he felt that her chains were far more binding than any which had ever held the negro, and that his obligations to her were so much the greater.

Something called the children out of doors, and Mr. Jarvis took his easy chair. His wife came and stood beside him.

"I fear you are not well, Donald. Are you displeased with me?"

He drew her into his arms and told her how her words had showed him what manner of man he was; and then were words spoken that need not be written, and from that forth a different man was proprietor of the Jarvis mills, and there was a bright light in Mrs. Jarvis' eyes, for at last she had something of her own, nor has she regretted that she "applied for wages."

A Generous Little Boy.

"Bobby," said his mother, "there are two pieces of cake in the closet, one for you and one for Gracie. The one on the lower shelf is for you."

Bobby broke for the closet and presently returned.

"You said that the piece on the upper shelf was for me, didn't you?" he asked of his mother.

"No," she replied, "that is Gracie's. The piece on the lower shelf is yours."

"Well, I'm very sorry, mamma, but I ate Gracie's. But I'll tell you what I'll do," and a generous light shone in the little boy's clear eyes, "as soon as Gracie comes home I'll give her part of mine."

When Clara heard that one of her friends had married the three armed man from California, she exclaimed, "What bliss!"

That Stupid Villager.

BURDETTE COMPARES HIM WITH SOME CITY FOLK.

"I am simply staggered by the opaque stupidity of the average villager," says Miss Kate Field, as quoted by a New York reporter. "I am just from Clifton Springs, and have had an allopathic dose of rural stupidity. I speak the sad truth," she continues, "enlightenment prevails most exclusively in the cities. In the small village ignorance stalks on every corner in unblushing effrontery. As soon as the young men (in the country village) arrive at man's estate they seek seek sociability at the bar-room."

Now, there is a great deal of sad truth in all that. The very saddest kind of truth. Ah, yes. How opaque the stupidity of the village errand boy; how clear the intelligence of the "rapid messenger" of the city, who keeps your message a week and then gives it to the wrong person. How faultless the porter; how marvellously accurate the waiter, how seldom or never do we hear any complaint on the part of the city people of the stupidity of city servants. And the wisdom of the city man in the higher walks of life. With what intelligent caution does he look about him in the railway car, to see if any may be near to hear, before he tells his wife whether the field of millet they are passing is wheat, or spring rye, or winter oats, or buckwheat. And when he tells her that the Berry ox is so called because he is always a red ox, and that the off horse is only used to help pull up hill, how does the stupid villager hide his diminished opaque head.

"Rural stupidity," even in homeopathic doses will stare at a balloon until it is out o' sight, but you must go on Broadway to see the superior intelligence of the city assemble a crowd of 500 business men around a hole in the ground to watch a couple of Irishmen dig down to a leaky gas main. It is in the city of New York that the police have to clear the sidewalks and compel the crowd of enlightened business men to move on when a stage horse falls down. It is in New York city that intelligent people trample each other to death in order to see the wind blow a man's straw hat off the Brooklyn bridge. One cannot remain a great while in the city without observing the superior intellectuality of the people.

Yes, it is "the sad truth; enlightenment prevails most exclusively in the cities," while "in the small village ignorance stalks in unblushing effrontery on every corner." Ah, yes. The enlightenment of the lower wards, for instance. The charming refinement of Bedford street, Philadelphia. The superior culture and intellectuality found in the slums of New York. How refreshing, indeed, after "an allopathic dose of rural imbecility at Clifton Springs," is an intellectual stroll down the academic shades of Baxter street.

After the "narrow limited compass" of the farm, what joy to the Platonic soul, to fly from the "depressing social" intercourse of the village" and seek the sweet converse of the Baconian minds in the haunts of the slugger; how tonic now broadening the sapient conversation of the tough and the sand bagger. After the "corroding prejudice" that warps the views of narrow minded farmers' wives, how, like the manna of the brain comes to the hungry mind, the improving conversation of the lady who yanks rags out of the gutter with an iron hook; how welcome the early visit of the gentleman who wishes to know if you have any antiques in the way of hats to dispose of; how like water from the flinty rock in the waste of rustic stupidity, comes to the soul, starving for intellectual pabulum, the expert in unappreciated bric-a-brac, the professor of junk, who with his humble, but intellectual dog cart, makes psychological collections of axiomatic bottles and polemic boots. How intensely hitherto it all is?

"If," says Miss Field, "a man in the country has any ideas he straightway goes to the city." Ah? Yes, in the autumn he does. The country roads are thronged with him now. He has the "idea" that leads him to the city. He has an "idea" that it is growing too cold to sleep under the trees and straw stacks, and so he seeks the warmer and less "stupidly" ventilated police station. The tramp is a city creation, and his exclusive intelligence was fostered on a free lunch route.

Yes, indeed. Something must be done to enlighten the appallingstupidity of the country villagers, or affrighted Reason, in abandoning all this fair land outside of the fenced cities to eternal and "rural" ignorance, will climb some tall and lonely tree and pull the tree up after her.

ROBERT J. BURDETTE.

ARDMORE, Pa., Oct. 28.

Where Imported Wines Come From.

In a store down town, the walls of which are lined with wine barrels, a large business is conducted with which very few persons are familiar. It consists of bottling American wines, beers, ales and other liquors, and affixing foreign labels.

"Think we would be detected in it would you?" observed the proprietor the other day. "That is nearly impossible. The truth of the matter is, very few Americans know an imported wine when they drink it. This comes not so much from their inability to judge of the relative merits of different wines as their inability to find real wines to give them a standard to judge by. Nearly all the restaurants give American champagne, American port, claret, sherry and ale for the imported stuffs. Nearly all the barrooms sell domestic wines in imported bottles, and it is seldom you find a private table that is better supplied. We have a printing establishment where all kinds of foreign labels are imitated—not perfectly, but near enough to deceive any one but the keenest expert. I maintain that the quality of our goods is equal to almost any that are imported, and if it were not for the prejudice of the public I would like to sell it openly under our labels; but it can't be done at present.

New York city people ate half a million dollars' worth of strawberries this year.

Counterfeit Detectors.

There is a very large amount of counterfeit paper afloat, and some of it finds its way to the treasury, when it is discovered in the redemption division. It is here, writes a Washington correspondent of the Pittsburg Post, that all the money sent in from outside sources is counted and examined. The counting and sorting is done by women, and they are the most expert in the country. They can tell a counterfeit instinctively, with eyes open or shut, and there is not a bank cashier in the United States, or even among the large contingent now sojourning in Canada, who could compete with them in the matter of determining counterfeits. They can tell a spurious bill as far as they can see it, and the mere handling of the paper is enough for them to decide upon its genuineness. The silk paper upon which treasury notes are printed can only be made by expensive machinery, and it is felony to even manufacture the blank paper without due authority. Under the circumstances all counterfeits are printed upon inferior paper, which lends this great facility in the matter of detection. A guide was once taking a party of visitors through the redemption division, and was expatiating upon the expertness of the fair money-handlers in this respect. He solemnly assured the party that one of the girls had detected a counterfeit in the middle of a pile of money six inches thick by merely seeing the thin edge of it. I am happy to say that this imaginative public servant has been discharged under a reform administration, but after all it was only an exaggeration of a demonstrated fact. To a stranger it seems more like diablerie than the possession of trained vision and a delicate sense of touch in the detection of counterfeits.

These female experts receive $75 a month for their services. They do nothing but count from 9 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon, and their hands move with a rapidity seldom acquired by the most expert bank clerks. But they make no mistakes. A miscount or a counterfeit overlooked comes out of the wages of the one making the error, and two or three mistakes a month would wipe out a girl's salary, as some of the bills handled are very large. The great drawback to the position is the poison absorbed by the continuous handling of money. The backs of all treasury notes are printed with a pigment which consists chiefly of paris-green. Small particles of this substance are absorbed, and in a year or two the girl who may have entered the treasury smooth-skinned and healthy finds herself a victim of lassitude, and with her hands and face broken out in malignant sores. Each employe is furnished with a sponge to moisten the fingers while counting. A new one is supplied every morning, and by evening its color will have changed to a dull black by the action of the poison. Notwithstanding this drawback, there is never any difficulty in filling vacancies.

Superstition about Comets.

In these beliefs regarding meteors and eclipses there was little calculated to do harm by arousing that superstitious terror which is the worst breeding-bed of cruelty. Far otherwise was it with the beliefs regarding comets. During many centuries they brought terrors which developed the direst superstition and fanaticism; the ancient records of every continent are full of these. One great man, indeed, in the Roman Empire had the scientific instinct and prophetic inspiration to foresee that at some future time the course of comets would be found in accordance with natural law. But this thought of Seneca was soon forgotten; such an isolated utterance could not stand against the mass of superstition which upheld the doctrine that comets are "signs and wonders." The belief that every comet is a ball of fire, flung from the right hand of an angry God to warn the groveling dwellers of earth, was received into the early Church, transmitted through the middle ages to the Reformation period, and in its transmission and reception was made all the more precious by supposed textual proofs from Scripture. The great fathers of the Church committed themselves unreservedly to this doctrine. Tertullian declared that "comets pretend revolutions of kingdoms, pestilence, war, wind, or heat." Origen insisted that they indicate "catastrophes and downfall of empires and worlds." The Venerable Bede, so justly dear to the English Church, made in the ninth century a similar declaration. St. Thomas Aquinas, the great light of the universal Church in the thirteenth century, whose works the Pope now reigning commends as the center of all university instruction, accepted and handed down the same opinion. The sainted Albert the Great, the most noted genius of the mediæval Church in natural science, received and developed this theory.—From "New Chapters in the Warfare of Science," by Professor Andrew D. White, in Popular Science Monthly for October.

When that heartless foe, Yellow Jack, who proved more deadly than Yankee bullets, slew General Hood, there were left eleven little Hood children without father or mother. Six of the eleven were twins. Two of the eleven died, and nine still live—three at New Orleans; one at Cohoma, Miss.; two at New York City; two at Woodville, Miss., and one at Scarsdale, N. Y. Not only have the orphans good homes, but a fund of $20,000 raised for them already has rolled, like the traditional snowball of the philosopher of thrift, into a lump worth $28,773.

An actor for a long time associated with T. W. Keene relates several amusing anecdotes about the tragedian. On one occasion, when he had made a great hit as Richard, the applause continued after the curtain went down. As the curtain touched the floor Keene turned a sommersault, and had just landed upon his feet when the curtain rose to discover him bowing his thanks.

A Centenarian.

It was here that we made the acquaintance of a colored woman, a withered, bent old pensioner of the house, whose industry (she excelled any modern apple-parer) was unabated, although she was by her own confession (a woman, we believe, never owns her age till she has passed this point) and the testimony of others a hundred years old. But age has not impaired the brightness of her eyes, nor the limberness of her tongue, nor her shrewd good sense. She talked freely about the want of decency and morality in the young colored folks of the present day. It wasn't so when she was a girl. Long, long time ago, she and her husband had been sold at sheriff's sale and separated, and she never had another husband. Not that she blamed her master so much—he couldn't help it, he got in debt. And she expounded her philosophy about the rich and the danger they are in. The great trouble is that when a person is rich he can borrow money so easy, and he keeps drawin' it out of the bank and pilin' up the debt, like rails on top of one another, till it needs a ladder to get on to the pile, and then it all comes down in a heap, and the man has to begin on the bottom rail again. If she'd to live her life over again, she'd lay up money; never cared much about till now. The thrifty, shrewd old woman still walked about a good deal, and kept her eye on the neighborhood. Going out that morning she had seen some fence up the road that needed mending, and she told Mr. Devault that she didn't like such shiftlessness; she didn't know as white folks was much better than colored folks. Slavery? Yes, slavery was pretty bad—she had seen five hundred niggers in handcuffs, all together in a field, sold to be sent South.—Charles Dudley Warner in October Atlantic.

"She Was Dar."

Mrs. Yerger, of Austin, having been absent for several days, returned to her home. She was met at the gate by her colored servant, Matilda Snowball.

"Has anything happened while I was gone?" asked Mrs. Yerger.

"De Lor', I should say sumbit happened. We came mighty nigh habin de biggest kind ob a fire," replied Matilda, rolling her eyes around.

"Where?"

"In your bedroom. You orter be mighty glad I was dar when de fire started. Ef hit warn't for me bein' dar de hull house would hab been burned down befoah now."

"So you put out the fire?"

"Yes, mum, I drapped de lamp, and it cotched de curtain, but as luck would hab it, I was dar. Ef I hadn't been dar when I drapped the lamp, whoope! dar's no tellin' what mout hab happened."—Texas Siftings.

It was hoped at least that these United States might claim the invention of the great American game of poker, but now turns up a mythical "Mr. Benjamin," fresh from Persia, who asserts that from time immemorial the game has been known in Oriental lands, and that it was played in Persia centuries before Columbus discovered America.

Greenback Leader Armstrong's collection Basket Illustration.

Editor Bellefonte Daily News: I was pained to learn through a friend of mine that certain parties in and about Milesburg, Pa., have been using a statement made by me in private conversation among a few friends that I had observed (and I gave it as an evidence of the condition of the producing classes in this country at present), that "when the collection basket in the M. E. church reached the pew in which I was sitting there was but one cent in the bottom of the basket." My intention was simply to privately convey an idea of the scarcity of money, and not, as some little busy-bodies would have it, to bring discredit on the Methodist church, to a branch of which my family all belong, and which I myself attend. The well-known liberality of the Methodist people is a statistical fact, and I am sorry that anyone should misunderstand what I said, or, what is worse in professing Christians, misrepresent it.

Very sincerely for the right,
THOS. A. ARMSTRONG.

Beck & VanTries, who are engaged in the steam threshing business, are still hard at work. They have a run of over one hundred barns and are doing excellent work. They have threshed over 45,000 bushels of grain.

Mr. Rhodes, proprietor of the Loveville store, has a new fall stock on hand The stock is composed of dry goods, groceries, drugs and hardware. It is the finest store in all the vicinity and surpasses many of the stores of Tyrone and Bellefonte. CLAY.

—The following special correspondence appeared in the Elmira Daily Advertiser:

WYALUSING, Pa., Nov. 2.—The Rev. R. Crittenden, American Sunday-school union missionary occupied the Presbyterian pulpit yesterday morning, addressing his hearers on the Sunday-school work, of which he gave many interesting accounts, illustrating the large territory over which he travels, with maps. In the evening he spoke on temperance in the Methodist church. Some twenty years ago Mr. Crittenden labored successful as a missionary in this community, but after a few years was called to an enlarged field, with headquarters at Bellefonte, Pa. The little work compiled by him, "The Book of the Best Things," finds ready sale here.

—The venerable Christian Dale, Sr., died at 12:30 o'clock Saturday morning at his home near Oak Hall, this county. His death was the result of a severe injury he received by a fall several weeks ago. His age was 78 years, 10 months and 17 days, and all of his life had been spent in this county. We hope to give an extended obituary notice of so well-known and respected a gentleman in a future issue. The funeral services occurred on Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the house, and were followed by services in the church at Boalsburg.

—On Monday morning, Nov. 2, says the Altoona Times, a lineman of the Western Union Telegraph Company, while passing through a clump of trees a few miles this side of Latrobe, along the Pennsylvania railroad track, discovered the body of a man hanging from the limb of one of the trees. It was evidently a case of suicide, as the cord and tree were both small, and when found the feet were touching the ground. The body had evidently hung for several days. Nothing was found on the remains by which they could be identified.

—The nice weather of Friday and Saturday morning made us exclaim, "All hail, thou glorious Indian Summer!" But its excessive brevity—only a day and a half—causes us to recall our salutation, and we shall wait for another visitation of similar Indian Summerishness.

—Our congratulations are due Mr. and Mrs. Pierpoint because of the arrival on Wednesday, the 4th, of a sweet little baby boy at their home. Papa and mama and Grandpa R. are all highly elated and gave the little stranger a royal welcome.

—Mail train east was delayed Saturday morning by an immense freight wreck at Port Matilda. We are informed that the wreck was caused by thirteen freight cars leaving the track at that place, and several hours were required to clear the track.

Medical, Etc.

Only Temperance Bitters Known.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM — PURELY — DR. WALKER'S — CALIFORNIA — ALCOHOL — EUREKA — VINEGAR BITTERS

No other medicine known so effectually purges the blood of deep-seated diseases.

Millions bear testimony to its wonderful curative effects.

It is a purely Vegetable Preparation, made from the native herbs and roots of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol.

It removes the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health.

It is the great Blood Purifier and Life-giving Principle; a Gentle Purgative and Tonic; a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the power of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to.

The Alterative, Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Anti-Bilious, Solvent, Diuretic and Tonic properties of VINEGAR BITTERS exceed those of any other medicine in the world.

No person can take the BITTERS according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Bilious, Remittent, Intermittent and Malarial Fevers, are prevalent throughout the United States, particularly in the valleys of our great rivers and their vast tributaries during the Summer and Autumn, especially during seasons of unusual heat and dryness.

These Fevers are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these organs, is absolutely necessary.

There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as it will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus forearmed.

It Invigorates the Stomach and stimulates the torpid Liver and Bowels, cleansing the blood of all impurities, imparting life and vigor to the frame, and carrying off without the aid of Calomel, or other minerals, all poisonous matter from the system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Pneumonia, Dizziness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are at once relieved by VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, the Bitters have no equal. In these, as in all constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS has shown its great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to Paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take occasional doses of VINEGAR BITTERS.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Swellings, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations, Humors and diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of the Bitters.

Pin, Tape and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like VINEGAR BITTERS.

Measles, Scarlet Fever, Mumps, Whooping Cough, and all children's diseases may be made less severe by keeping the bowels open with mild doses of the Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, this Bitters has no equal.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood when its impurities burst through the skin in Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when, and the health of the system will follow.

In conclusion: Give the Bitters a trial. It will speak for itself. One bottle is a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Around each bottle are full directions printed in different languages.

A Steamer Sinks.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The Daily News' special from Winnipeg says: A fearful disaster occurred on Lake Superior off Port Arthur early this morning. The iron steamer Algoma, of the Canadian Pacific railroad, was wrecked and thirty seven lives lost. Only meagre particulars have been received up to the present hour. They consist mainly of telegrams to private persons announcing the loss of friends. E. Dudgeon, of this city, received the following telegram:

"Algoma gone down. Your wife and two children are drowned.

(Signed) JOE VIVIAN."

Dudgeon's wife is 35 years old and the children are a boy and girl 6 and 4 years old respectively. Dudgeon is from Owen Sound, and was sending his wife and family back to Ontario. The steamer left Port Arthur at 3 p. m. and was wrecked off Isle Royal just at the outside of Thunder Bay. A heavy storm prevailed all Sunday afternoon and night and the steamer lay to for a time.

When the weather cleared slightly the vessel started again, but made slow progress. In the morning a dense fog prevailed, and the steamer felt her way along, blowing fog horns. She struck a reef and went down, all hands on board being reported lost. The steamer was bound for Owen Sound, with passengers for Toronto and other points east. John G. Brown, a bricklayer, of this city, accompanied by his sister, is known to be on board bound for Scotland to visit his old home for six months. Captain Moore is master of the vessel, and Mackenzie, a nephew of Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, is purser.

WINNEPEG, Nov. 9.—It now turns out that the steamer Algoma was coming into Port Arthur and not going out when the wreck occurred. She left Owen Sound last Thursday and was wrecked Saturday night. The first known of the disaster was when the steamer Anthabasca, of the same line, arrived at Port Arthur late this evening with the crew of the ill fated Algoma, consisting of thirteen sailors, and two passengers in a perishing condition on the island.

The wreck had been dashed by the maddened waves against the rocks and had finally beaten against the shore of the island. The crew and two passengers saved themselves by taking to a life boat and battling with the waves until the shore was reached. The boat was washed over several times by the waves but righted again, while the men clung closely to its sides. They succeeded in reaching land almost dead from exposure and exhaustion. The storm continued to rage furiously all night long.

The Lost Steamer.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., November 10.—The terrible marine disaster, resulting in the drowning of forty-eight persons and the loss of one of the most valuable passenger steamers on the lakes, was reported here last night when the steamer Athabasca arrived. On board of the Athabasca were Captain James Moore, commander of the Canada Pacific railway steamer Algoma, two passengers and eleven of her crew. They were all that were left of the sixty-two persons who sailed for this port from Owen Sound on the Algoma last Thursday.

The story of the disaster, as related by Captain Moore, is that the Algoma passed through the St. Mary's canal, bound for this port, last Friday noon. Soon after reaching Lake Superior the wind began to freshen up from the northeast and a great bank of leaden clouds along the northern horizon denoted the approach of heavy weather. Realizing, however, that the Algoma was one of the strongest and most powerful steamers, and able to cope with even a severe gale, Captain Moore kept her on her course. But as night approached the wind continued to increase in violence, and by dark had developed into one of the fiercest and most destructive gales ever experienced on the upper lakes.

As the gale increased the began to lash, and before midnight Lake Superior was lashed into a wilderness of seething foam, while the tempest screeched and howled, and great seas swept completely over the struggling steamer. The situation was made all the more terrible by the blinding snow storm that set in before morning. It was impossible to see the length of the steamer. The passengers and crew were terrified beyond measure, and momentarily expected to see the steamer plunge to the bottom By instructions of Captain Moore the officers circulated among the passengers, trying to allay their fears. They were panic stricken, however, and huddled together in the cabin, where the screams and prayers of the women and children could be heard above the thundering of the gale.

Saturday morning Isle Royal was sighted, and Captain Moore headed the steamer for Rock Harbor, where he hoped to gain shelter. The island forms a natural harbor of refuge, but near the entrance there is a dangerous reef, and just as the steamer was nearing the entrance she struck the reef. There was a terrific shock, and then the steamer came to a full stop. The passengers rushed out of the cabin and beseeched the officers to tell them what had happened. "We are on a reef," replied Captain Moore, "but if you will keep as calm as possible I trust all will be safely landed."

Just then one of the crew reported that the steamer's bottom had been punctured, and that she was filling with water. The boats were at once got in readiness, and all started to leave the steamer, but just as they were about to lower them the steamer slipped off the reef and disappeared with an angry roar. The water was covered with the struggling forms of men and women, and then all was over. Only fifteen live to tell the tale. These got into one of the boats, but were powerless to help themselves as they were without oars. Capt. Moore, however, wrenched a foot-board from the bottom of the boat, and, with that as a paddle, succeeded in working the boat to the island where the survivors were picked up by the Athabasca. Mr. Bentley, the manager of the line, has sent out tugs from here with instructions to search Isle Royal for any survivors that may possibly have got ashore and to pick up and take care of any bodies that may be found. The tugs are now at the scene of the wreck.

Accident on the West Shore.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—A serious accident occurred on the West Shore railroad near Little Falls, New York, just after 12 o'clock this morning, to the limited express going west, which passed there without stopping. Half a mile above the station a rivulet, swollen by the heavy rains had washed the track for ten feet until the south rail had sunk a foot or more; the north rail not so much. The engine of the express train passed safely over this spot, but the tender went down twelve feet into a ditch. The baggage car remained on the track. The smoking car was derailed, but remained upright.

The first sleeper turned upon its side and crashed upon the tender, breaking through and splintering one-third of its length. The next car was thrown from the track, but was left upright. The balance of the train remained on the track.

In the sleeper were Hon. Chas. R. Pratt, just elected to the assembly, and his wife, who were returning to their home in Rochester from Kingston. Mr. Pratt says that when the accident occurred they were asleep. He awoke to find himself fast between a seat and the car sill. His wife spoke in a feeble voice, saying she could not move; that she was suffering, and soon afterwards she bade him good-bye. It was nearly two hours before they were removed, and then Mrs. Pratt was dead. There were only slight bruises upon her head and arms. Mrs. Pratt was 38 years old and leaves four children. Mr. Pratt is only slightly bruised. A number of other persons were injured, but it is not thought seriously. The cars did not take fire. Coroner Ellis is holding an inquest.

The Storm King.

GALVESTON, Tex., Nov. 8.—A dispatch to the News from Dangerfield says that a tornado passed over a portion of country about ten miles south of that place on Thursday evening. The house of Hardy Pitman, colored, was blown down. Pitman, his wife and their four children were killed. The residence of the widow Bruce was also wrecked and the woman and her daughter were seriously injured. Much other damage was done, the extent of which was not stated. The path of the storm was about 20 yards broad and the whirlwind moved with great velocity

The storm was general, extending through all parts of the United States. At Spartanburg, S C., and in Southern Illinois buildings were blown down and a terrible rain storm prevailed. At Chattanooga, Tenn., two steamboats were wrecked. Snow fell throughout Nebraska.

Gladstone On the Stump.

LONDON, November 9.—Mr. Gladstone to-day started on his long promised electioneering tour. He left his home at Hawarden, Wales, early this morning, in apparent good health and spirits. He made a brief stop at Chester, where he was presented with an address by the citizens of that place. In reply Mr. Gladstone said he was going to Midlothian, not so much for the purpose of securing his return to Parliament as for the purpose of teaching and preaching the imperative necessity of united action by the Liberals in the coming campaign. Throughout his speech he was enthusiastically cheered. The first meeting at which Mr. Gladstone will speak will be held in Edinburgh on Wednesday next.

Mr. Tilden's New Conservatory.

NEW YORK, November 10.—Samuel J. Tilden is building one of the largest and most complete conservatories in the country on his premises at Greystone. It will be supplied with all kinds of fruit, so that fruit can be plucked the whole year round. The conservatory is built in sections and will be so arranged that when the fruit of one section is used the next section will be ready. When finished the grounds will be thrown open to the public and they will be permitted to visit the conservatory under the direction of Mr. Tilden's manager. This immense hot house stands on the east bank of the Hudson river, about 500 feet above the level of the stream.

Thieves who Lacked Judgment.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 8.—At midnight last night thieves broke into the police station here and stole the overcoat of Chief of Police Dodd. Mrs. Dodd, in her rooms in the upper floor of the building, heard the sound of breaking glass and telephoned to a store in the most crowded part of the city. The Chief happened to be in front of the store at the time, and ran to the station in time to see the escaping thieves He chased them some distance, and finally, with the help of another officer, captured them both, recovered his coat and locked them up. They said they were George Budder and Frank Bowers, toughs from the Seventh Ward of Newark.

Monument to General McClellan.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 8.—The movement to erect a monument in this city to the memory of the late General George B. McClellan is becoming very active and will undoubtedly result in success. The Grand Army Posts and the political clubs, irrespective of party feeling, are to be liberal contributors. This being the birth-place of General McClellan the citizens will take a native pride in the movement and contribute largely. It is declared that the monument will be such as the striking importance of the deceased deserves.

Blue Laws in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 8.—A strict Sunday law passed by the City Council went into effect to day, and all business places except drug stores were closed. The Daily Age was the only concern that did not obey the law. It went on this morning selling papers as usual. Charles M. Hays, business manager, was arrested and gave bond. The Age Publishing Company will test the law.

Will be Sold for $20,000.

Special to the Tribune of Altoona.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Nov. 8.—The bondholders of the Huntingdon car and car wheel works held a meeting at the office of William Dorris, Esq., last night at which it was decided to sell the works to Messrs. A. and P. Roberts, of Philadelphia, for the sum of $20,000. providing the latter would operate the works here and not remove them to any distant place. At the late sale of the car works the bondholders purchased them for $7,000, subject to the mortgage of $35,000. The works are capitally situated and to an enterprising firm would be cheap at $100,000. It is thought the Messrs. Roberts will accept the terms of the bondholders, in which event a very bright prospect can be said to await Huntingdon.

Patrick Curran, Who is in the Williamsport Jail, Confesses to the Murder of Pat Martin, in Howard, 22 Years Ago.

MARTIN'S THROAT CUT AND HIS BODY BURNED IN A BARN.

Patrick Curran, a man 81 years old who has been known as a rough character, is now confined in the county jail at Williamsport for setting fire to woods in Gamble township, Lycoming county. He is partially paralyzed and is at death's door, and on Wednesday, Nov. 4, made a confession to one of the attendants in the jail of a murder which he committed at Howard, this county, in the year 1863.

After saying that he was born in Cork, Ireland, and was compelled to leave that country because of being concerned in an insurrection which was started by William Smith O'Brien, he related how he came to America and eventually found his way, in company with one Pat Martin, to the coal regions, where they were Mollie Maguires. We conclude the confession which he made with an extract from the Williamsport Banner, as follows: "Tiring of this, as there was not money enough in it for us, we left the coal regions and tramped to Howard, in Centre county, where we heard there was a band of counterfeiters. We had learned the art of counterfeiting in the old country and determined to join this band and grow wealthy. At Howard a coldness sprang up between Martin and me on account of a girl, whom we were both paying attention to. We had buried our money in an old barn on the outskirts of the town and one night in the early part of 1863 we went there to divide the spoils. Martin was very ugly and we quarreled. He hit me and then we came to blows. He threatened to blow on me and for my own protection I drew my knife from my pocket and killed him. Feeling that my crime would be discovered, I dug a hole in the corner of the barn and buried the body. I covered the spot with a bundle of rye straw and set it on fire. As soon as the barn was a blaze I made my escape and came to Williamsport and have never seen the place where I committed the crime since. This is my secret, which I have kept for the last 22 years, and I feel as if I cannot die until I confess."

[Pat Martin is remembered by citizens of this place, and was once, we are informed, an employe of Duncan's foundry. —ED.]

Curran Confesses to Another Murder

Friday night Patrick Curran, the self confessed murderer, confined in the county jail at Williamsport, had another talk with his nurses, and the following was written down by them as it came from his lips:

"I was implicated in a job near Snow Shoe with a man named Snyder. There was a man staying there who was suspected of having a large sum of money in his possession. Snyder came to me and asked me if I wanted to make money easy; as I was ready to do almost anything I told him 'yes.' We went to work to perfect our plans and laid in wait for him one night. Snyder struck him on the head with the limb of a tree and knocked him senseless. Snyder took all the money from him—something over $1,000, and left him lie there and started off. Several days before we went away, Snyder promised to meet me at a certain place and divide the money I went to this place at the time appointed, but he failed to put in an appearance; he skipped out and I never got any of the money. The man never recovered from the blow, but he nor any one else ever knew who did the job. I followed counterfeiting for a number of years and made plenty of money. I received my information and was kept posted by a man named Oarman, who ought to have been sent to the penitentiary years ago, for a worse man never stood in shoe leather."

In reply to a question asked him if he had any money, Curran said: "Yes, I have, but you nor no one else will ever get it. I have got it hid where no one can find it." He afterwards said he had some money near Trout Run.

The Gazette and Bulletin, of Monday morning, relates his death, as follows:

Patrick Curran, the self-confessed murderer, died at the county jail at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The remains were taken in charge by the Page brothers, undertakers, who will have them properly buried. The old man's last days were made up of suffering and remorse for his past misdeeds, and death was his only relief. He was in his eight-second year.

"Cob" Comes Forward with Items from Stormstown.

STORMSTOWN, Nov. 9, 1885.

Election day passed off with but very few squabbles. There was a misunderstanding between the judge of the election board and the balance of the township. Fortunately for Day, no Democrats scalps were taken, but several Republicans lost their right to vote. A farmer who has resided in this township since the day of his birth was refused the registry list.

Mr. Henry Brindle, of the mines, is now on the road toward recovery, being able to talk and walk.

A party of fine Nimrods went hunting on election day. Of this number, one (John P. Roop) was very successful, bringing down a large, fine deer. He never fails to kill when he uses his never erring double-breech rifle—that is, if the game is in reach of powder and lead.

The steam thresher owned by Beck & VanTries has given better satisfaction than any machine that has ever been in this part of the country.

Dr. Tobin met with an accident the other day which might have resulted seriously. While driving to Halfmoon run to visit a patient, his horse frightened at some object near the road and sprang to one side. The Doctor was dragged along the road, recieving numerous painful bruises and cuts. The horse and buggy came in contact with the fence and the latter was converted into kindling wood.

S. S. Clark, clerk at the store at the mines, has severed his connection with it. He has taken H. Greely's advice and will go West.

J. A. C. Rider, of this place, has been very unlucky in the past six months, having lost his pocket-book twice in that time. COB.

—We telephoned to Howard Saturday morning to discover if possible the recollections that the people of that place have regarding the murder said to have been committed there 22 years ago, the facts of which have just been confessed by the perpetrator of it. So far as we can learn, none of the people remember the circumstances, but we, nevertheless, believe such a crime was committed and would be pleased to hear from anyone who can furnish information on the subject.

An Excellent Medicine.

"I certify that my wife and myself were in bad health for some fifteen years. I chanced to be looking over one of Simmons Liver Regulator Almanacs and saw A. H. "It fairly Wearies me to Think of the multitude of things advertised to cure disease," you say. No wonder. But in the mountains of chaff there are grains of golden wheat. We may find it difficult to induce you to test the merits of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, but when you have done so, our work is ended. Afterwards you and this medicine will be fast friends. Favorite Remedy would have died out long ago except for its real usefulness. But it is good and does good.

Pneumonia and other acute and chronic diseases have their origin in nervous exhaustion. To prevent nervous exhaustion and debility take Vitalized Phosphites. By Druggists.

There are more diseases than there are visible stars, but there is one remedy that goes to their common source in secretions and the blood. That is Dr. Walker's Vegetable Vinegar Bitters, a prompt and perfect remedy for all diseases of the blood. It gives new vitality to the secreting and excreting organs, and fills the arteries with new material for strength.

The Renewal of Vigor.

The most important step in this process is the restoration of the functions of digestion and assimilation to full and uninterrupted exercise, since it is upon their activity alone that the system can depend to replenish its dwindling store of energy. Among tonics which the voice of the people and high professional indorsement approve as reliable, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has long been recognized as the best. Its properties as a medicated stimulant commend it to all persons suffering from the effects of fatigue, mental or bodily, as an immediate means of counteracting their effects; and in cases where loss of vigor is attributable to such weakening chronic causes as dyspepsia, affections of the kidneys and bladder, and the infirmities peculiar to age, it produces permanently beneficial results. Those twin obstacles to health and vigor, liver complaint and constipation, are also removed by it. It also prevents and cures malarial disease.

—Mr. D. M. Campbell, of Linden Hall, did not visit us on Tuesday, but a son of Mr. Campbell, whose name we forget, did put in appearance and we hope to see him again.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c, I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. EDITOR'S TABLE.

The Christmas Harper's Magazine will be strong in stories. Besides installments of Miss Wolson's "East Angels" and of Mr. Howells' "Indian Summer," and the latter's farce, "The Garroters," illustrated by Reinhart, there will be a Christmas story, "Way down in Lonesome Cove," by Charles Egbert Craddock" (Miss Murfree), illustrated by Dielman; another, "The Madonna of the Tubs," by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps; a third tale, "Esther Feverel," by Brander Matthews, illustrated by Fyle; and a "ghost story"—"Wyvern Moat"—by George H. Boughton, illustrated by the artist himself.

Mr. Howells calls his new novel, "The Minister's Charge; or, The Labors of Lemuel Barker." Its publication will begin in a winter number of The Century. As already stated, some of the characters of "The Rise of Silas Lapham," will reappear in the "The Minister's Charge," the scene of which is laid in Boston.

Vitalized Phosphites.

HEALTH AND VIGOR FOR THE BRAIN AND NERVOUS SYSTEM

CROSBY'S VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES

Composed of the Nerve giving Principles of the Ox-Brain and the Embryo of the Wheat and Oat.

This is a standard preparation with all physicians who treat mental or nervous disorders. The formula is on every label. Its chemical composition is superintended by a professor of Chemistry.

As it is identical in its composition with brain matter, it is rapidly absorbed, and quickly relieves the depression from intellectual efforts, fatigue, loss of memory, or mental irritability.

Sleeplessness, irritation, nervous exhaustion, inability to work or study is but a brain-hunger—in urgent cases, brain starvation. This brain nutriment quickly feeds the hungry nerves and restores brain power. It is a cure for nervous disorders and debility in old or young.

BRAIN WORKERS NEED BRAIN FOOD.

Crosby's Vitalized Phos-phites should be taken as a Special Brain Food.

Catarrh

Is undoubtedly caused by impure blood. Hence a medicine which purifies the blood removes the cause of the disease and opens the way for a thorough cure. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, and it makes the cure complete by giving the system health and strength, and enabling it to throw off the depressing effects of the disease.

Catarrh

Is permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mr. A. Ball, Syracuse, N. Y., says: "Hood's Sarsaparilla has helped me more for catarrh and impure blood than anything I ever used."

We will not refuse credit to responsible parties for goods on 30 days' time—this we consider cash—and when we grant this we want it distinctly understood that at the expiration of that time the account must be paid. We don't intend to exhaust what little profit we have made by sending statement after statement to each one that owes an account that is due, but will send one, and so avoid offense and misunderstanding we explain publicly in this manner what we mean, so don't ask for credit unless you fully intend to live up to our terms.

Good Clothing vs. Slop-Shop Clothing.

With a view of giving the best value for the lowest possible prices we have raised the quality of our CLOTHING in MEN'S, YOUTH'S, BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S to such a grade that we hold ourselves ready to compete with any custom work made in Centre county, at prices far below merchant tailors' prices, and before buying solicit a visit to examine our stock. In doing this we have to a large extent sacrificed profits to meet prices suitable to the times. An endless variety in the whole line. S. & A. LOEB.

Ladies' Coats, Jackets, Newmarkets AND SHORT WRAPS.

The largest variety ever shown in Centre county, all tailor made to our own order by skilled operatives. Superior fit and workmanship. All the latest designs at prices fully as low as ordinary goods are offered at. Our aim has been to give as good a wrap in workmanship, fit and grade of goods, as careful work and good goods can make them. Try one of ours on before buying elsewhere. S. & A. LOEB.

S. & A. LOEB.

Hand-Made Boots and Shoes.

We have prided ourselves for years on the quality of our BOOTS AND SHOES, and have hundreds of testimonials for their elegant service. Why buy a cheap Yankee Boot or Shoe, when you have to buy two or three times a winter, when you can get one pair to last the whole season for near the same price? Low priced goods in Boots and Shoes are not the cheapest. Buy a good pair and try the difference. S. & A. LOEB.

DRY GOODS.

We quote no leaders in DRY GOODS, but offer everything in the line fully as low as legitimate competition will or can afford it. We have no calicoes at 2 cents per yard, nor Canton flannels at 4 cents, as our regular trade have no use for such goods, but we have a full line of DRY GOODS, comprising everything, Domestic Dry Goods and House-furnishing Goods, including carpets at the very bottom prices, and the cheapest and best line of White and Colored Blankets ever offered in Bellefonte. Against the Democrats.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5—The circuit court room was crowded for nearly an hour this morning awaiting the appearance of the judges to render their decision upon the election mandamus case. When the court appeared there was the closest attention to every word uttered. Judge Cox read the decision. He said it was a petition for mandamus filed by Amzee McGill for himself and three others, candidates for election as state senators, averring that the canvassing board was proceeding to do its work illegally and asking the court to compel it to count the returns according to law and to issue certificates to them instead of the democratic candidates. To this the defendants had filed a motion to strike out the material averments of the petition as irrelevant and insufficient to support the demand in the petition.

In the argument this motion had been treated as a demurrer, and defense claimed that mandamus was not the proper remedy, because the canvassing board's duty was not ministerial, but quasi judicial, and because the proper remedy was by contest before the senate. The court held otherwise that this court could direct the canvassing board by mandamus, and that mandamus was the proper remedy. The distinction made by Judge Buckwalter was followed by this court declaring that this is not a contest for the office, but for the certificate, which cannot be given by the senate, and which has a value distinct from the office itself.

The court then considered in detail the averments which the defense asked to have stricken out, and overruled the motion in all cases except one, where the allegations were as to irregularities in counting the vote. In the progress of the decision the court stated that it had a right to direct the clerk to omit from his canvass returns which did not comply with the mandatory provisions of the law. Among these were that the returns should be delivered to the clerk in the manner and within the time named in the law, and that the number of votes shall not exceed the number of names on the poll-book. The defense asked until to-morrow to enable them to decide what further steps they shall take. It is understood they will appeal to the supreme court.

The Battle in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The Evening Post says: When the full returns of yesterday's vote in New York are received they will make an unusually interesting study. At present it is possible to consider only pluralities for the State as a whole. These show plainly that if the vote for Davenport in the State at large had been as full as it was in this city and Brooklyn he would have been elected. He was in fact defeated by what has always been considered the Republican stronghold of the State, the portion north of the Harlem river. Hill's total vote in this city falls over 9,000 behind Cleveland's and Davenport's falls over 14,000 behind Blaine's. The transfer of Tammany's total vote from Blaine last year to Hill this year ought to have made a greater change than this, and the fact that it did not indicates that many independent democrats did not vote for Hill. The Post places Hill's majority in the State at 12,158, and states that the next legislature will be composed of 21 republicans and 11 democrats in the senate, and 78 republicans and 50 democrats in the assembly.

Tammany has elected Grant, sheriff; Flack, county clerk; Nooney, president of board of aldermen, and two of the three coroners. The board of aldermen will stand 7 County Democracy, 8 Tammany, 5 United Democracy and 4 Republicans. The members elected by the United Democracy are of County Democracy antecedents.

A Jealous Mexican.

GALVESTON, Tex., November 3.—Intelligence has just reached here from Edinburg, Texas, that a horrible murder was committed Sunday night at the Hudson ranch, by a Mexican named Hipolito Villaraeal, a well-to-do ranchero. Ten days ago Villarael employed a young Mexican, Dessrado Figuero, to tend his flocks. In the neighborhood of Hudson's ranch resided a handsome young senorita whom Villareal was courting. In one week Figuero displaced his emplorer in the affections of the young lady.

Crazed with jealousy, Villareal waited until his victim was asleep, and then attacked him with a stiletto, cutting Figuero in the most atrocious and barbarous manner possible to imagine. Having mutilated the dead man he cut long gashes the entire length of his body, both in front and on his back. How long Figuero withstood these tortures before death relieved him no one knows, but it is probable that he died with the first cruel stroke of the dagger. Villareal attempted to escape into Mexico, but has been captured. There is a strong probability of his being lynched.

Ex-Senator William Sharon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Ex-Senator William Sharon is on his death bed. Several weeks ago he was prostrated by malarial fever. At first but little heed was given to his sickness. The Senator had at different times attacks that were apparently more serious. His doctors were taken off their guard, and before they were aware of it their patient's condition became critical. His death has been momentarily expected for twenty-four hours. He is at the Palace Hotel, which he built and which he has managed for eight years. Knowing that his end was near, he sent for his friend, M. Lloyd Tevis, of the Wells-Fargo Express Company, to come to his bedside. Mr. Sharon, although a famous man for many years in consequence of his great wealth, attained very unpleasant notoriety in the suit for divorce brought against him by the gushing and keen-eyed Sarah Athea Hill. It is in this capacity and not as a Senator of the United States that he will be best remembered.

To Resume at Roach's Yards.

CHESTER, Nov. 6.—Orders have been received at Roach's ship yard to start up next Monday morning and the machinery is being put in order to that end. About 300 men will be put to work.

The Panama Canal Fraud.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—M. de Lesseps, in a letter to a stockholder of the Panama canal company, justifying a further call of 125 francs per share, says he is going to Panama in January to inaugurate the final period of the work on the canal. He refers to his application to the French government for permission to issue new bonds, and repeats his prophecy that the Panama canal, although its cost will be double that of the Suez canal, will earn three times the earnings of the latter.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Dr. J. C. Rodrigues has now published his final conclusions in a book entitled "The Panama Canal," given to the public last week. These conclusions indicate that the mammoth scheme into which De Lesseps has sunk a hundred millions of dollars is already an established failure and must soon end in the greatest financial disaster that has been suffered since his wild eyed fellow countryman, John Law, bankrupted France with his south-sea bubble. M. Rodrigues claims that De Lesseps was taken up mainly for his name by the irresponsible parties who got the charter from the Republic of Columbia; that he entered on the mighty scheme without so much serious study as a prudent man would make in planning a new house, that the canal was located in the wrong place if it was to be built at all, and that people were fooled into subscribing by ignorant misrepresentations which amounted to fraud.

A Salvation Army Funeral.

LEBANON, Nov. 5.—A strange funeral took place on the streets of this borough. Mrs. Catharine Carl, aged seventy-two, died and the interment was advertised to take place in Mt. Lebanon Cemetery. Mrs Carl was a member of the Salvation Army and took a praying interest in the organization. One of her last requests was that the Salvation Army should bury her. The coffin was removed to the barracks. Lively hymns were sung, prayers delivered and addresses made by a number of the lieutenants, both male and female. The body was then carried to the hearse by the members of the army, who followed the hearse in the funeral procession, walking behind it in the middle of the street and singing songs as they walked along. The singing was continued all the way out of the cemetery.

Unfortunate Wealth.

ST PAUL, Nov. 4.—Cyrus Yandes, whose father, James W. Yandes, formerly of Indianapolis, died a few days since leaving a considerable fortune, was found dead on his father's grave to-day. He had blown the side of his head off with a shotgun. Grief for his father, and the responsibility of settling a million-dollar estate for himself and sister in the absence of a will is believed to have unsettled the young man's mind. George Yandes, of Indianapolis, is now superintending the removal of the remains, together with those of the father, mother and three brothers and sisters, all but the former being buried in the yard of the homestead here. The funeral car will leave about Friday. The family has a wide range of connection and acquaintances East.

The Andre Monument Blown-up.

TAPPEN, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Great excitement still prevails here over the blowing up of the Andre monument last night. In the house of Mr. D. K. Simmons, which stands upon the hill about five hundred feet from where the monument stood, nearly every pane of glass is broken. The ground is broken up with the force of the explosion for a space of three hundred yards round the monument. This morning a rope ladder and a piece of paper which it is supposed had been wrapped around a cartridge, was found near the monument. Mr. Simmons took these in charge and is now in communication with the police authorities. The police claim to have a slight clue to the parties implicated in the outrage, but will not speak specifically on the subject until they have communicated with Mr. Field.

Uncle Sam and the Dolphin.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—It was ascertained yesterday that negotiations for the transfer of the steamer Dolphin had been pending between her builder and Secretary Whitney for some time past, and would have been consummated earlier but for a delay in the obtaining of sureties which Mr. Roach is required to furnish. The papers are duly signed and sealed, and the government has become the possessor of the craft whose vagaries on her trial cruise have been the subject of so much public interest. The documents in the case are at Washington, but will be made public directly.

An Ex-Rebel Shoots a Union Veteran.

OSAGE CITY, Kan, Nov. 4.—John P. Peck, an ex-rebel soldier, shot John F. Martin, an ex-union soldier, yesterday morning. Peck was working for the Democratic ticket, Martin for the Republican, and at different times Peck boasted that he had been a rebel soldier, and Martin resented it as an insult. An angry altercation resulted, in which Peck drew a pistol, aimed at Martin's breast and fired. The ball struck his left thigh a little below the groin. Peck was arrested and is now in the city prison.

From Illinois.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The returns this morning show that the new election law has been adopted by a majority of from 13,000 to 14,000. Benjamin D. Magruder, the non-partisan candidate for the vacancy on the supreme bench, received nearly all the votes cast. Gwynn, the republican candidate for judge of the supreme court, has 5,000 majority over Hyns, democrat. Two republican and two democratic county commissioners were elected.

A Wandering Maiden.

HUDSON, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Hattie Egan, the girl who disappeared from her home in New Lebanon on October 10, was discovered on Hancock Mountain Saturday. She had been wandering in the woods for twenty days without food, except nuts, which are abundant. When found she was in a deplorable condition. No cause is assigned for her leaving her home.

A Democratic Jubilee.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Governor Hill received the honor of a serenade at the Executive Mansion last night by the Jacksonian club. The affair was made the occasion of a great Democratic demonstration.

Routed by a Woman.

READING, Nov. 6.—Several suspicious men loitered around the residence of David Krininger, at Eagle Point, for two successive evenings, awaiting the return home of Mr. Krininger, who is a mail contractor, and drew his pay last Saturday. His wife is a courageous woman and determined to rid herself of the offensive intruders. After ordering them away on the second night by raising a window and threatening to shoot unless they left instantly, she was surprised to find a fire kindled in her kitchen and the entire building in danger of destruction. She succeeded in extinguishing the fire after great difficulty and then taking down her husband's double-barreled shotgun from above the mantle-piece, she sallied forth from the house and drove away the marauders at the point of the gun.

A Large Pittsburg Gas Company.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 4.—A new company has been organized here, which will attempt to cover all the natural gas territory within the belt. Heretofore the companies have only aimed to handle certain wells in certain regions. The new companies go further than this and will handle gas from all places where it can be found. On November 25 a charter will be issued to the company, which is composed largely of Pittsburg capitalists, with the right to bore for natural gas, market it and pipe it from the counties of Westmoreland, Indiana, Butler, Beaver, Lawrence, Mercer, Armstrong and Allegheny. The capital of the new company will be between $400,000 and $500,000 and the principal offices will be in Pittsburg. It has already secured valuable gas properties and is daily securing more.

The Fight to Succeed Mahone.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 5—The latest returns show about 18,000 majority for the state ticket. The legislature will be about as follows: House, 68 democrats, 21 republicans; senate, 29 or 30 democrats, 9 or 10 republicans. The two men most spoken of as likely to succeed Mahone as United States senator, are Chairman Barbour, of the democratic state committee, and John W. Daniel. The fight between these two may be so close as to require a compromise candidate. If so Judge J. W. Staples, of Montgomery, stands a good chance. Many believe Mahone will try to go to the house of representatives next year as Congressman Brady's successor. Governor Cameron also wants the place, and will oppose Mahone for it is necessary.

A Postmistress's Curiosity.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Nov. 5.—Mrs Catharine Trump, Postmistress at the village of Corning, has been arrested charged with opening letters out of curiosity and reading them for the purpose of keeping herself posted in regard to the business secrets of her neighbors and the love affairs of the young people of the community. She admitted her guilt, and in justification alleged that she did not know that she was committing an offence for which she could be punished. She was put under bail to answer at the next term of the United States Court in Philadelphia.

No Pleuro-Pneumonia.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 4.—State Veterinarian J. S. Butler writes: "Please correct the report that I found two cases of pleuro-pneumonia at Lancaster, Ohio. I found two animal affected with tuberculosis, but not pleuro-pneumonia. One of the animals, being beyond the reach of medical skill, was slaughtered, and the post mortem examination confirmed my diagnosis. There is no cause for alarm, as there is no pleuro-pneumonia in the state at present, to my knowledge."

A New Street Sweeper.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—L. J. Hale, United States Consul at Manchester, England, describes a newly-invented street sweeper, which he thinks will create a revolution in street sweeping. It not only sweeps the pavement, but gathers up the sweepings and removes them. With the new machine two men and two horses will do the work which now devolves upon seven or eight men and two horses. The authorities of that city are about to put the machine in use.

Hill's Plurality Growing Less.

NEW YORK, November 5.—Up to noon to day, while nothing definite could be learned, the indications are that Hill, democratic candidate for governor, will have a plurality of 11,000, which may be increased by returns from some of the back county districts. The Tammany men have elected their entire county ticket. That the republicans will control the legislature is an indisputable fact.

Jones May Get There.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—The returns for lieutenant governor are still incomplete. General Car runs considerably ahead in many places, and Mr. Jones has run behind Mr. Hill in several counties. Returns from 43 out of 60 counties show a falling off in Jones' vote, as compared with Hill's of about 7,000. Mr. Jones' plurality will not be more than 4,000 over Carr.

Quay's Big Majority.

PHILADELPHIA, November 5.—Complete returns from every county in the state except Allegheny, which is estimated at 8,500 republican, give Quay 64,551, Day 20,853, Quay's plurality is 43,716.

LATER.—Complete returns from every county in the state give Quay 44,127 plurality.

New Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The following named fourth-class postmasters were appointed to-day in Pennsylvania: Charles T. Beck, Cressona; Obadiah Quay, Speers; Elmer Warner, Tannersville; Walter E. Clendennen, Turtle Creek; J. D. Geiger, Washingtonville; A. B. Rowley, Eldred.

Nebraska.

OMAHA, Nov. 3.—The election in Nebraska was for a Judge of the Supreme Court and two Regents of the University. All counties chose a full set of county officers. The vote was comparatively light. The indications are that the Republicans carry the State.

Robinson's Plurality.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—With six towns to hear from, Robinson's plurality over Prince is 22,129. Beard's plurality over Cross is 17,231.

A Demented Young Man.

DUBOIS, Nov. 6.—George Heathington, a young man employed as clerk by the Adams Epress Company, left home the other night. An examination developed that he had taken considerable money belonging to the company. Subsequently he returned and refunded all the money except $50. It is thought that he is demented and no prosecution will be made.

She Paid Extra.

A widow, whose age might have been forty, went into business on Grand River Avenue a few weeks ago, and the first move was to get a sign painted. The services of a sign painter were secured, and when he finished his work he put on his "imprint" by placing his initials, "W. A. H., down on the left hand corner of the sign. When the widow came to criticise the work she queried:

"What does the 'W. A. H.' stand for?"

"Why, 'Wanted. A Husband,'" replied the painter.

"Oh, yes—I see," she mused. "It was very thoughtful in you, and here is a dollar extra!"—Detroit Free Press.

Becoming Useful at Last.

Pittsburg Dispatch.

It is rather interesting to learn that Oscar Wilde is coming down to real business in the line of esthetic reform, and is now out with a crusade for the purpose of having ladies' night gowns made of silk in tints to suit the complexion of the wearer. Mr. Wilde's recent marriage seems to have turned his attention to the practical questions of life, and we may even entertain the hope that he will in time devote his giant intellect to the reform of bustles.

AN INTERESTING LETTER

From Mr. Harry Olmstead, Proofreader of "The Times."

The following letter is encouraging and worthy careful perusal, coming, as it does, from so reliable a source, unsolicited. It contains facts of great value:

INDIANAPOLIS Ind, Oct. 12, 1884.

DR. DAVID KENNEDY, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR:—For ten years I have been a sufferer from disease of the kidneys, at times so much so as to make life a burden. During this time several of the best physicians in Indiana have treated me with little or no success, until I had almost despaired of relief. I then tried several advertised remedies, but nothing produced the desired result until a friend who had been relieved induced me to give DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY a trial. I did so. After taking one bottle I began to experience relief, I took another and was charmed with the result. In all, I have taken four bottles, and can truly say I feel like a new man. I am confident I am entirely cured, as it has been several months since I took the last medicine and there is no indication of a return of the disease. I have recommended your remedy to several suffering friends who have also been relieved. I write this to return my sincere thanks to you for the cure which has been effected in my case, and also desire to say that I think suffering humanity owes you a debt of gratitude for your wonderful scientific discovery. I shall do all that in me lies to let all sufferers know where they may find relief and thereby in some measure remunerate you for the good you have done me.

Wishing you long life and prosperity, and thanking you for prolonging my life, I am

HARRY W. OLMSTEAD.

DR. KENNEDY, OF RONDOUT, N. Y., assures the public by a reputation which he cannot afford to imperil that the "Favorite Remedy" does invigorate the blood, cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder complaints, as well as those diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females. Your druggist has it; if not, send One Dollar to Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. 17 36 1y

COURT PROCLAMATION.—Whereas, the Hon. A. O. Furst, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the 49th judicial district, consisting of the Counties of Centre and Huntingdon and the Hon. Chester Munson and the Hon. J. R. Smith, Associate Judges in Centre county, having issued their precept, bearing date the 1st day of Oct., A. D. 1885, to me directed, for holding a court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery and Quarter Sessions of the peace in Bellefonte, for the County of Centre, and to commence on the third Monday of November, being the 16th day of Nov., 1885, and to continue three week, notice is hereby given to the Coroner, Justices of the Peace, Aldermen and Constables of said County of Centre, that they be then and there in their proper persons, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, with their records, inquisitions, examinations, and their own remembrances, to do those things which to their office appertains to be done, and those who are bound in recognizances to prosecute against the prisoners that are or shall be in the jail of Centre county, be then and there to prosecute against them as shall be just.

Given under my hand, at Bellefonte, the 29th day of Oct., in the year of our Lord, 1885, and in the one hundred and ninth year of the independence of the United States.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

—A protracted meeting is in progress in Millheim.

—Many people who enjoyed skating regret the sale of the Rink.

—It was 1 o'clock when the train arrived from the west on Saturday.

—Mr. Moody's meetings in Williamsport will be held in the skating rink.

—The mail from this place to Centre Hall will soon be carried by rail.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has declared another 2 per cent dividend.

—It is said that Mann's axe factory, at Boiling Springs, will soon start into operation again.

—Clearfield county teachers' institute will convene at Clearfield on the 21st of December.

—Lock Haven will have a board of trade some time between now and the Millenium.

—Miss Blanche Holmes, of Nittany Hall, is the guest of Mrs. William Eartley in Philipsburg.

—Rev. Chas. T. Steck conducted the prayer meeting service in Y. M. C. A. hall Friday evening.

—Allegheny street is very lively about noon when the children are on their way either to or from school.

—Farmers are beginning to boast about the big porkers they have been fattening during the past year.

—Wit, humor, sentiment and pathos are combined in the recitations and impersonations given by Stuart Rogers.

—We understand that the Bellefonte skating rink has been purchased by John Ardell, Jr., as a storehouse for lumber.

—Mr. J. V. Thomas is surmounting the top of his fence with two rows of barbed wire to prevent the cows eating the green hedge.

—Martin H. Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ward, of Ebensburg, and brother of Mrs. H. A. McPike, of Altoona, died on Thursday morning.

—There is plenty of hallooing done now between Millheim and Coburn, the telephone line between those places having been completed.

—We regret to learn of the continued illness of D. S. Keller, Esq. He is convalescing slightly and we hope to hear of his rapid improvement.

—Aaronsburg travelers are returning home, Rev. M. L. Deitzler and wife having arrived from Harrisburg and Mr. and Mrs. Abs Musser from Kansas.

—The Pennsylvania car shops at Altoona are again in operation six days a week. For some time past the employes have been making only five days.

—Jesse E. Dale, Republican, was elected sheriff of Clearfield county on the 3d. He is the first Republican ever elected to that office in Clearfield county.

—The store rooms in the new brick block known as Merchants Square are so rapidly approaching completion that they already begin to assume an almost finished appearance.

—The garden cultivated by Rev. C. F. Deininger, of Millheim, has produced a turnip measuring 32 inches in length and weighing 8 pounds and 2 ounces. It is one of the new Quay varieties.

—Rev. Geo. W. Miller, D. D., of Philadelphia, has been secured to deliver a lecture in this place on Friday evening, December 11, on the subject of "Pluck and Patience." He will lecture for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association.

—We hear of a couple from Millheim, in this county, who have gone to New Jersey to get married. The reason for their long journey is that the father of the bride objected. The mother, however, gave her blessing and $200, and said, "Go and be happy."

—When the Philadelphia Times prints portraits it usually makes them look something like the original. On Thursday it presented the pictures of some of the high officials of the Grand Army and that of Department Commander Curtin, while not especially excellent, is nevertheless passably good.

—We sympathise with our dear, sweet, innocent friend, the Centre Democrat, because it has no correspondent in the thriving borough of Philipsburg. Spruce up a little, show some enterprise and perhaps you can induce somebody to write from that place for your paper; then the excellence and voluminousness of the News' correspondent will not disturb your equanimity.

—Judge D. L. Krebs recently appointed Mine Inspector, J. M. Watt, P. B. Zentmyre, operator of Houtzdale, and W. S. Edwards, miner, of Osceola, as Mine Bosses and Examining Board for the Eighth Bituminous district of Pennsylvania. The new board met at the Inspector's office, at Philipsburg on Saturday, October 31, for organization and to attend to other matters.

—The week which began Sunday, November 8, is being observed throughout the civilized world as a season of prayer for young men and young men's Christian associations. This season had its origin in a resolution adopted by the international convention of the American associations, held in Albany, N. Y., and has been observed every year since at the recommendation of the subsequent conventions. There are now 2,900 of these associations in the world.

John Francis.

A GROWING BELIEF THAT THE HERO OF PHILIPSBURG FELL AMONG THIEVES,—MORE LIGHT ON THE SUBJECT.

The paper has not published much about Philipsburg's "nine days sensation," but enough to inform our readers of all its essential features. They know that he went to Europe to have papers made out which, it was supposed, would secure his title to a $2,000,000 fortune in Valparaiso, Chili. He then returned with the papers, borrowed several thousand dollars from friends and started for Valparaiso. Soon after he had reached California his friends received word that he had become the victim of conspirators—that they had, in fact, robbed him of his money and departed leaving him half dead.

At once the suspicion was aroused and became quite general that he was a fraud—that he had planned this scheme to secure money. We understand that his wife, who remained behind in Philipsburg, on hearing of his misfortunes, at once sold their little home to secure money and went with her children to him.

Hearing it whispered that Col. D. H. Hastings and Judge Orvis, of this place, were among those from whom he had borrowed money, we called at the office of the former on Wednesday afternoon, to learn if the rumor was correct. Col. Hastings informed us that, so far as he was concerned, the rumor is not correct and he believes that John Francis has really become the victim of evil men. "By the way," remarked the Colonel, "I have a letter received only a day or two ago which may be of interest if you intend to write anything about him." The letter he handed to us is postmarked "San Jose, Cal.," and was written in San Francisco. It is as follows:

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26, 1885.

D. H. HASTINGS—Dear Sir and Friend: I write only a few lines to tell you I am badly betrayed by a lot of sharpers and cut-throats. I cannot find anything out concerning the Chili matter. I was to see the Chilian consul on Saturday, but I cannot get any information about anything. I am in a bad state and I am almost crazy. I cannot find any clue to those detectives that came here with me. They robbed me of all I had and might have killed me. I am afraid it was a "set up" job to make money, and they picked on me for their cue and made me unhappy for life. Mr. Hastings, I am very sorry to hear that the people in Philipsburg have turned around on me and think I am everything that is bad. When I was expecting my fortune they were all my friends, but now they have turned their backs to me. I will come back some day. If I live I hope to be able to pay every cent that I owe to everybody. I hope this deed is right. [The "deed" refers to the deed of his house which was sent to him for his signature and was returned to be recorded.] I have done everything as you told me. I will close for this time and will write you a letter again. I am not able to give you any news about my troubles. I am doing all I can to try and find out all about it, but it is a hard job, for I cannot get any answer from Valparaiso, and that is what makes me feel as if it is all over with me. I wish I had never received any news about it at all, for I should have been then in my little home and my dear little family would have a home; but here I am and my six children and nothing for them.

I close for this time hoping to have my health and strength, and will get through and protect my family, I hope. From your unfortunate friend,

JOHN FRANCIS.

"It seems very strange," said Colonel Hastings, "that the detectives sent with him by one of the most reputable banking houses in the country should prove such rogues. That part of it I do not understand. But I still believe that John Francis has acted in good faith in this affair and has become the victim of villains."

Linden Hall News.

Daniel, you should be careful, for you certainly know that hanging on gates is strictly prohibited.

John returned from the mountains with a fine lot of pheasants, which, fortunately, no one happened to see but himself. Strange to think that John would hunt so near the beginning of the week.

Major, the coon hunter, made quite a haul the other night by catching five on one tree. Think of that, hunters.

Quite a number of tramps are parading the highway at present (Democratic administration.)

John Davis, who has been in Dakota all summer expects soon to return to Linden Hall.

Geo. Baker was very unfortunate a few days ago in cutting one of his legs. The injured member is quite painful.

The officials of the R. H. Sabbath-school expect to keep the school open all winter.

Fergus Potter has begun his five months' term of school. Success to him.

Baumgardner has just completed a lot of new bobsleds which are quite handsome.

The apple crop is immensely large.

No sickness at present.

VIVAT REPUBLICA.

—The Philipsburg Ledger notes that Mr. John West has taken possession of the old Passmore House, at the corner of Spruce and Front streets, in that borough. Jack is well known, and having had several years experience in the hotel business, he is in every way qualified to take charge of the house. His guests will be assured of the most careful attention and every hospitality. We hope the hotel will regain its former good trade under Jack's management.

Stormstown Sensations.

STORMSTOWN, November 3, 1885.

Farmers are finding it very pleasant weather for husking corn.

Captain Stevens, believing his residence much to low on the ground, procured the services of W. B. Blake, of Altoona, and had it elevated a couple of feet, which makes a decided improvement.

Daniel Chamberlain, of Warriors Mark, mine boss at Juniata Mines, met with a painful accident one day last week. He was caught between two cars at the mines and severely pinched, since which he has not been able to be on duty.

DIED.

LUSTER.—Only child of William and Anna Seigel, aged 7 months and 13 days.

The little fellow had been sick for some time, and afterwards recovered slightly. Again his condition became worse and he never recovered. He was interred in the Friends graveyard.

Your correspondent took in the sights at Tyrone and Philipsburg, and in both places noticed a boom in the way of grading streets and beautifying residences, and fixing up in general for Winter.

Our big-hearted, genial friend, Daniel Rhoades, of your town, was noticeable here this week.

We believe the first Hungarian or Polander vote ever cast in this township was cast here on Tuesday for Col. Quay, and not for Day, as some persons believed it would be. The writer accompanied him to the polls and saw that he was kindly taken care of. COR.

—Mr. Moody is now in Reading. A dispatch from that city to the Commercial Gazette says that on Wednesday, the 4th, the big rink on South Fifth street in that city contained an audience of 3,000 people and a choir of 200 singers when the opening service of Moody's revival meeting began. Jesse Orr, of the Reading stove-works, led the singing. Rev. Mr. McCauley opened the meeting with prayer. Rev. Mr. Breyfogle read the Scripture lesson. Rev. Mr. Bielhenner followed in prayer. Rev. Mr. Masser spoke on "How can be cultivated the spirit of prayer among Christian people?" Evangelist Moody's hearty person then appeared on the platform and he delivered an address on the same subject. Later he spoke on reducing non-church goers. He advocated less ceremony in churches and more of the common, earnest service to meet the wants of plain people. A local class of men here asked Mr. Moody how to conduct services as he thought they should be conducted and was promptly answered. In the afternoon the best mode of making prayer-meetings profitable was discussed. At 4 p. m. Mr. Moody had a Bible reading. At 7:30 in the evening he addressed 4,000 people and the building rang with a chorus of 400 voices.

—There is a nail panic in Pittsburg and throughout the west on account of the nailers' strike. Nails are difficult to obtain at $3.25 per keg, and all that have been in the market for the last six weeks have been manufactured in the east. Builders and contractors are complaining bitterly about having to pay such enormous prices for nails, and in one or two extreme instances work on buildings not urgent has been temporarily suspended, in hope of the strike coming to an end.

—The venerable Mrs. Schroyer, of this place, departed Thursday morning for Harrisburg, where, we understand, she expects to reside with her son, Mr. Benjamin Schroyer. We hope she will enjoy her home at the Capital.

Improved Order Heptasophs.

Supreme Organizer Saml. I. Osmond instituted Bellefonte Conclave of I. O. Heptasophs in Bellefonte last Friday with 20 charter members.

The following officers were elected: Past Archon, Austin Curtin; Archon, Saml. Sheffer, Jr.; Provost, Walter W. Bayard; Prelate, W. T. Twitmire; Inspector, J. W. Barnes; Secretary, Geo. P. Bible; Financier, C. E. Schaeffer; Treasurer, H. C. Weaver; Warder, John D. Lingle; Sentinel, John Noll; Trustees, S. B. Williams, W. C. Fees, Amos Mullen; Medical Examiner, Dr. J. L. Seibert.

The Conclave will meet semi-monthly on the 2nd and 4th Fridays of each month. Mr. Osmond, the supreme representative of the I. O. H., is an old newspaper man and his success in organizing lodges and conclaves for secret beneficiary orders has gained for him the appellation of "Boss Organizer".

Borough Officials.

On Tuesday, the 3d, Centre Hall elected the first borough officers in her history, having but recently been incorporated as a borough. The list of officials is as follows: Burgess, John Kisbel; Assistant Burgess, Jacob Ripka; Members of Council, Simon Harper, E. G. VanPelt, William R. Camp, G. F. Horlacher, D. J. Meyer, M. Derstine; Judge of Election, John Spangler; Inspectors, William P. Shoop and D. A. Boozer; Constable, C. W. Bollinger; High Constable, William H. Ruble; Overseers of Poor, H. D. VanPelt and Emanuel Smith; School Directors, G. W. Hosterman, J. F. Alexander, William A. Jacobs, B. D. Brisbin, C. D. Runkle and J. W. Henney. Auditors, J. C. Boal, James H. Lohr and C. Dinges.

Captain Suter Retires.

Captain John P. Suter, the Pennsylvania Railroad Division Superintendent of Telegraph, with headquarters at Pittsburg, has been granted a leave of absence for an indefinite period. His health is very much shattered and it is hoped a rest will benefit him. The captain has been in the service of the company at Pittsburg for more than twenty years and during that time his duties have been of a most arduous and exacting nature. He is a comparatively young man, not over 48, but he has broken himself down in the discharge of the affairs of his position. His family resides at East Liberty, and for the present Mr. Suter will be at home with them. Mr. C. M. Shaeffer, train dispatcher at Pittsburg, will be in charge of Captain Suter's office during his absence.—Altoona Times.

—A telegram to the Pittsburg Telegraph from Houtzdale under date of November 3 says: Trade seems to be slowly but steadily reviving here, but the railroad cars are still very scarce. A man named Mullen had his leg severely bruised by a fall of coal on Wednesday, at Franklin, but is recovering. William Wynd, who had his leg broken in the Vandermyer mines, is getting around again. Arbor Day was observed by the schools here on Thursday. Vanduyen's mines lost most of the week on account of their buildings being flooded.

—Information is wanted of the whereabouts of George H. Coleman, who left his mother's home July 27, 1885. He was 19 years old, about five feet seven inches high, light built, dark complexion, gray eyes, scar on left lower jaw caused by an abscess, steady habits, rather delicate in appearance, and lately employed at cigar making. Any information should be sent to the Secretary of Mt. Zion Lodge, I. O. O. F., York, Pa.

—We were favored with a call Thursday morning from Mr. Walker, of West Ferguson township. He is the elder brother of our popular official, Sheriff Miles Walker. He is a Republican and is the only one of four brothers who takes a really correct view of political questions, the other three being far gone in the depths of Democracy, though in all other respects they are first-class gentlemen.

—We really do not understand why the Democratic papers are printing pictures of their barnyard fowls at this particular time. The Democrats have won no victories. Compared with the preceding Gubernatorial elections in New York and Pennsylvania, Tuesday's battle was a disastrous defeat to them.

—We much regret to learn that Mr. John Tate, who is employed at Valentines' ore banks, had his left leg broken on Thursday evening, just as he was about to quit work. Two lumps of ore struck him, one coming in contact with his head and the other breaking his left leg.

—Mr. Cass Clark and Mrs. Jennie Smith, both of whom are colored, were married in Philipsburg on Wednesday evening, the 28th of October. It was quite an elegant affair as both parties are members of the "upper ten" colored society of that town.

—The official majorities in Centre county as just declared by the returning board are: State ticket, 418 for Day; jury commissioner, 460 for Roan; coroner, 413 for Hoy.

—The recently-elected officers of the Adelphic Club are: President, Arthur Taylor; vice-president, Sam Dawson; treasurer, Jacob Lyon; secretary, Israel Sternberg.

Something New in Dakota.

Citizen—Will you take in the hanging to-day?

Another Citizen (with a yawn)—No, I guess not. Who are the boys after this time?

First Citizen—The boys have nothing to do with this affair. It's a legal matter. The prisoner has been tried and sentenced by a regular Judge, the same as is done back in the effete East.

Another Citizen (with a display of interest)—Is that so? Then I'll take it in as a matter of curiosity.

Profit for Everybody.

Parker's Tonic kept in a home is a sentinel to keep sickness out. Used discreetly it keeps the blood pure, and the stomach, liver and kidneys in working order. Coughs and colds vanish before it. It builds up the health.

"I sell large quantities of Parker's Tonic in my drug store. Among my customers, a doctor has been prescribing it for the past two years. He was nearly dead himself, and tried every remedy known to his profession, without any relief. After he had used four bottles of Parker's Tonic he began to grow in flesh, and the improvement in his health was absolutely wonderful. He now recommends it to everyone."—J. E. The paradise of invalids! The home of tropical fruits! Climate unsurpassed! No frost! No extremes of heat or cold! No malaria! Ground high and dry! Plenty of pine! and the finest hunting and fishing in America.

PALMA SOLA has the name of being the largest, prettiest and youngest town in Florida. Is beautifully located on the Gulf coast, two miles above the mouth of the Manatee River. Already the iron horse is wending its way to Palma Sola, and soon the tourist will arrive at its first class hotel, where he can get a meal to suit his epicurean tastes.

PalmaSola possesses the largest store in Southern Florida, with sawmill, furniture factory, packing houses, warehouses, churches, school house, post-office, stores, beautiful residences, and a large wharf at which ocean steamers arrive daily from Tampa.

WARREN LELAND, Jr., of "Long Branch" fame, has secured a location at Palma Sola for the erection of a winter resort. The prediction is a safe one, based as it is upon the natural advantages and attractions of the place, that he will make this the "LONG BRANCH" of FLORIDA, and other large hotels will be built.

With the completion of the railroad, this will be the terminus, and the direct route to Havana, Cuba. Lots will double and quadruple their present prices. NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

LOTS 100x200 ft. $45 to $ 00 per lot. Local Department.

—Cooler.

—Large congregations attended the Moody meetings.

—Painters are still at work on the residence of Wilbur Reeder, Esq.

—Hon. L. A. Mackey came up from Lock Haven on Monday afternoon.

—Judge Hugh Cummin, President Judge of Lycoming county, is a very handsome gentleman.

—Mrs. Susan Leach, aged 93 years, 5 months and 23 days, died in Lewistown on Thursday, the 5th.

—Among the new postmasters just appointed are Mr. G. Eckel, of Pine Grove Mills, and Mr. E. S. Hipple, of Pine Glen.

—Mr. H. C. Snavely, one of the genial inhabitants of Nittany Hall, pleased us greatly by spending a few minutes in our office Tuesday.

—Mr. Elias Iddings was in town Tuesday. He resides at Mill Creek, Huntingdon county, but occasionally finds his way into Centre county.

—The Altoona Tribune is up to the times again in its reports of the Moody meetings. The reporter on this occasion is doing very excellent work.

—Mr. John Tate, who had his leg broken and was otherwise injured by a fall of ore on Thursday afternoon, suffered much pain on Sunday, but was resting easier on Monday.

—The tool handle factory of Chandler & Council, at Mill Hall, near Lock Haven, and the furniture factory of E. Bartholomew in the same place, were destroyed by fire on Saturday night. The loss is estimated at $5,000; no insurance.

—We advise Gregg Post, G. A. R., to put tickets on sale at Sourbeck's for the Milliken Opera entertainment, on the 18th instant, as soon as possible, as people are anxious to procure them and reserve seats at once. We predict that all the seats will be reserved at least a week before the entertainment occurs.

We believe he goes to York, Pa. Many of his freinds assembled at the train to bid him good-bye. We believe it would be a profitable financial investment if the citizens of Bellefonte would secure the return of Mr. Moody to remain about two weeks. But his busy life, probably, renders that impossible.

—By the reckless riding of a horseman Saturday night a horse was made to run off and one or two persons narrowly escaped serious injury. It would be well for Bellefonte police to arrest all such reckless riders and give them a few hours in the cooler, during which they could learn that other people have some rights as well as they.

—Mr. Fearon Mann, of this place, the owner of the valuable Boiling Spring axe works, has disposed of one-half interest of the real estate belonging to the business to Mr. Archey Allison, of Potters Mills, for $12,000. The two gentlemen have formed a partnership and will begin operations as soon as a new building can be erected, which will probably be in three or four weeks.

—From the Lock Haven Democrat: "Miss Ohnmacht, of Bellefonte, a finished and cultured musician, after a business trip to Clearfied and Reynoldsville, spent a few days in Nittany Valley among friends. Miss O. is the pianist for a large orchestra which has a state reputation for performing excellent music, and is a valued and highly appreciative band to have in a city."

—The Centre county Sunday-school Association held its sixteenth annual convention in Philipsburg yesterday. Among the representatives from this section are Austin Curtin, of Milesburg; Rev. R. Crittenden, of this place; and Rev. John Zeigler, of Wingate. Rev. S. E. Furst, of Salona, is President of the association, and is attending the convention.

—Rev. W. R. Whitney, of Stormstown, writes as follows: "DEAR SIR: A statement by one of your correspondents concerning my recent fall and injury was substantially correct. I would say for my many friends who are still inquiring that I fully recovered in a couple of days. I missed only one evening service at a protracted meeting then in progress." Everybody will be pleased to learn that Rev. Whitney is as well as usual again.

—The Gazette and Bulletin, of Williamsport, on Monday, contained the following notice of Mr. James Thompson, who we believe is the gentleman that is to engage in business with W. I. Fleming, of this place: "On Tuesday last Mr. James Thompson, brother of Mr. William F. Thompson, member of the firm of R. W. Gibson & Co., who are among the largest dry goods dealers in this city, removed to Bellefonte, and to-day he opens to the people of that town a splendid gents' furnishing store. If Mr. Thompson secures as many friends there as he has in Williamsport, he will do a very large business. He was one of Williamsport's best citizens, and he will prove such for Bellefonte."

The Sixteenth Anniversary.

Sunday evening was not one of the kind to lure people from comfortable homes to go anywhere. Underfoot it was wet and muddy. The moisture from below penetrated the most compact patent leather and made the pedestrian catch a cold. That from above circled around under the umbrellas and through the gossamers and created a general feeling of discomfort. It was dark—something like Egypt was on one occasion.

Therefore, the Methodist church, where the Sixteenth anniversary services of the Young Men's Christian Association were to take place, was not crowded, only comfortably full, the ushers showing praiseworthy skill in packing everybody into pews.

Within all was chereful, made more so by the good people of that church, who had shown their aesthetic and refined taste by profuse decorations of flowers and plants in front of the pulpit. Above the artificial alcove on the north side of the pulpit was the word "welcome;" on the other side was the word "friends." These were formed with autumn leaves. People united these words into "Welcome friends," and knew at once that their presence was welcome. Beneath each word was a bouquet of ferns.

The service was a union one of almost all of the churches and the ministers were shown into the pulpit. There were Revs. Chas. Steck, William Laurie, J. F. Delong, R. Crittenden, J. A. Woodcock and M. K. Foster. The choir, which was a large one composed of perhaps forty male and female voices, rendered a voluntary. W. S. Zeller, the retiring president, took charge of the service by announcing a hymn. Then Rev. William Laurie prayed and Rev. Chas. T. Steck read from the Scriptures.

The reports, which were brief, were as follows: President's report, W. S. Zeller; treasurer's report, George L. Potter; general secretary's report, C. E. Shaeffer; devotional committee's report, N. S. Bailey; library committee's report, F. Potts Green; a combined report of the Boys' Branch and financial committee, J. W. Gephart, Esq. The last-mentioned was spoken as it had not been committed to writing.

When the reports had been heard Gen. James A. Beaver, President-elect, took charge of the exercises. He delivered an address in which he enforced a suggestion made by the President in regard to the purchase or erection of a building for Association purposes; and also referred to the advantages offered by the library, all the contents of which are fresh, pure and excellent, and it is the only public library in Bellefonte. He called on Revs. Woodcock, Crittenden and DeLong, successively, to offer prayers and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. M. K. Foster.

During the services frequent references were made to the forthcoming visit of Dwight L. Moody, as it unusual for him to visit so small a place, and Mr. Gephart, in his remarks, attributed the influence, which induced Mr. Moody to visit Bellefonte largely to the fact that our town contains one of the oldest Associations in the State of Pennsylvania.

A Report that was not Delivered.

By some oversight, the report of the Lecture committee of the Y. M. C. A. was not called for at the anniversary meeting Sunday night, and for that reason we called on Dr. J. W. Rhone, the chairman, and obtained it and herewith present it as follows:

REPORT OF LECTURE COMMITTEE

To the President (Wm. S. Zeller) and members of the Young Men's Christian Association:

Owing to the discouragements previous Committees met with, and owing to the depressed times at the beginning of the Association year just closed, your committee did not deem it best to press the subject of lectures on the community; therefore, there is no work of special interest to report for the past year.

Notwithstanding there has been substantial prospective work done, to be handed over to the incoming committee for the new year, which will be of interest, as well as very beneficial, providing the association, and the community take hold, with a willing hand, and aid the incoming committee in their prospective work. The work laid out is

1. A course of "free lectures" or "practical talks," for young men particularly, although most of the addresses, if not all, will be open to the community generally.

The following named gentlemen have given their consent, each to devote an evening in giving a "practical talk," at such times during the winter as will be most convenient for all, (in the Y. M. C. A. Hall), viz:

Revs. M. K. Foster, Charles T. Steck, and John DeLong, of the clergy.

Of the laity, Gen. James A. Beaver, Dr. T. B. Hayes, have consented, and our friend, Col. James Milliken, is holding the matter under consideration. Of the State College, Prof. George W. Atherton, L. L. D., and Prof. Wm. Hale Herrick, (Prof. of Chemistry), have each promised to devote an evening to our association.

These gentlemen have all cheerfully consented to devote their time and talents to your edification, each for an evening. Surely, the Committee can with confidence bespeak for them an appreciative community, and good audiences.

2nd. In the way of a pay lecture your committeee has secured the services of the Rev. Dr. G. W. Miller, of Philadelphia, a gentleman well known to the public here, to deliver his favorite lecture, viz., "The Secret of Success," or "Pluck and Patience," for the benefit of our Association, to be delivered on the evening of the 11th of December next.

By making a careful estimate all the expenses will not exceed $60—perhaps not more than $50.

If the project will be supported as it should be, and as we believe it will be, 300 tickets can be sold at fifty cents each, making a gross income of $150, leaving a net income of from $90 to $100; first to pay the balance due on the piano, somewhere from $50 to $60, and the balance—not less than $30,—to apply to the Library fund.

Respectfully submitted,

COMMITTEE.

CHRISTIAN DALE, Sr.

A Few Words about a Widely Known and Highly Respected Gentleman.

We suppose there are very few people in Centre county who did not know or had not heard of Christian Dale, Sr. He was the venerable head of one of the largest and most prominent families in Centre county. The family and their connections, either by blood or marriage, constitute the controlling elements of society in and about Boalsbury, Oak Hall and vicinity. The subject of this notice was possessed of honor and wealth, and during all his life of almost eighty years superb health was his portion. A few weeks ago, however, he fell and broke one of his lower limbs. The shock of this accident terminated in his death.

We were personally acquainted with Mr. Dale as he was a frequent visitor to Bellefonte, and he did not neglect on such occasions to step in and say a kind word to the editor. The news of his death shocked and grieved us greatly.

On the occasion of his 75th birthday on Tuesday, the 20th of December, 1881, the event was celebrated with much eclat. At that time an account of the celebration appeared in the Bellefonte Republican, from which we extract the following:

"When he saw the tokens of filial affection around and on the festal board; when the memories of three quarters of a century came crowding back reminding him of six loved ones in graves well known and of one sleeping under the shadows of the "Sunny South," at a spot unknown; and when he saw those who are perpetuating his name already three generations away and yet present with him, his heart overflowed with feelings of mingled sadness and joy **

"Mr. Christian Dale was born December 20th, 1806, and was a son of Henry Dale, of Revolutionary fame, who, when in his seventeenth year, entered the army of the Revolution and won distinction as a brave soldier and true patriot. He was the father of fifteen children—ten of whom are now living." "The maiden name of his first wife was Hannah Schoenberger, who was the mother of eleven children, and that of the second was Eliza Neff, who was the mother of four children. Three of his sons are graduates of colleges, four were in the army of the late civil war, one of whom, Solomon, fell where no comrade could identify his dust or ashes. Another, Christian Dale, Jr., was a captain in the immortal "49th," and is a scarred and honored veteran well known to many. Two sons, A. A. Dale, Esq., and Clement Dale, Esq., are attorneys at law in Bellefonte, and the daughters are married, being Mrs. J. Musser and Mrs. John Musser, Jr. The family is historic and long will the name be revered because of the substantial citizens who perpetuate it."

The deceased was a gentleman of high intelligence, thrift and energy. He possessed a wonderful memory, and his personal recollections of local history were valuable. He was kind and considerate and no one met him without being benefited by the intercourse and companionship.

Only a year or two ago he was a candidate for the office of associate judge and was almost elected, polling a vote which was an unusual testimonial to personal popularity.

One by one the citizens who have brought the name of Centre county to honor and fame are passing from the stage of earthly existence. It is with sorrow that we record their departure, but with gladness that we pay humble tribute to their memory.

—According to orders just issued from headquarters at Harrisburg, November 10 was the closing day for rifle practice for the season of 1885 by the members of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. Company commanders are requested to forward to the regimental inspectors of rifle practice a report of the officers and men qualified as marksmen not later than Saturday of next week. The regimental inspectors will report the scores and number qualified to the brigade inspectors on 20th instant, and brigade inspectors will make their reports to the acting general inspector of rifle practice at Lancaster on the 25th. All reports will state on the margin of score sheets (under head of remarks) the number of bars each qualified marksman is entitled to wear. The attention of company commanders is called to that part of general orders relating to making requisitions for the number of medals with bars attached, and of single bars alone, to which marksmen are entitled.

—How ceaselessly and uninterruptedly the rain fell on Sunday. The dark clouds poured down their contents during all the long day and the atmosphere was muggy and generally disagreeable.

The First Meeting.

From the Daily News of Tuesday.

Dwight L. Moody is with us. He is the man who has been instrumental in converting a greater number of person than any man who ever lived—even more than the most successful mentioned in the Bible. The vast congregation that assembled to greet him was simply endless. Every available inch of space in the largest church in Bellefonte was filled, and still the people pressed in or turned away again in despair. There were about 1200 in the church.

The large choir was led by Secretary C. E. Schaeffer and sang with spirit and sweetness.

Many ministers were in the pulpit and eminent men were in the audience. There was Gov. A. G. Curtin, Gen. James A. Beaver, and Judge Hugh Cummin, the latter President Judge of Lycoming county. Judge Cummin is an Episcopalian—a member of Rev. Dr. Hopkins' church, Williamsport, and very active in church work.

Everybody was eager to see and hear Mr. Moody. A man of medium height, quite stout and rotund, stood before them. He is the picture of robust physical health and, despite his avoirdupois, is quick and alert in his movements. He is forty-eight years of age. After several prayers were uttered and hymns rendered, he read the portion of Scripture refering to the gifts brought by the people for the erection of the Tabernacle, as found in the first part of the 25th chapter of Exodus. His remarks were directed principally to Christians. He told them that each has some work to do; that each should do the work at hand.

Wherein consists this man's power? We are at a loss just now to determine. His voice is not very agreeable, nor his enunciation particularly distinct. We have heard men talk much more fluently. We have been moved to tears and smiles according as the speaker was pathetic or humorous,—Moody did neither. But he displays marvelous familiarity with every incident in the Bible, and talks of them with as much ease and naturalness as people do of their dinners. By the use of this weapon—the Sword of the Spirit—he has doubtless won his triumphs. Future meetings will show his power, which we hope may be fully demonstrated in Bellefonte.

Meetings Held by Moody.

Almost all day on Tuesday meetings were held by Mr. Moody. Each one was crowded. As meeting succeeded meeting the interest increased. His addresses and the inspiring music by the choir were listened to with close attention.

An additional meeting was sandwiched in at noon, when a dozen of the prominent gentlemen of the town met with him at dinner and discussed plans to provide a building in Bellefonte for young men. Then and there two gentlemen expressed a willingness to give $1,000 each of the required amount—$10,000. Another meeeting was sandwiched in in the evening. It was an early meeting in the Methodist church for ladies.

The meeting in the Presbyterian church for men, in the evening, presented a rare spectacle—the vast room packed from end to end by men. We don't know that a similar spectacle was ever witnessed in Bellefonte before, except at a political meeting. Rev. S. A. Taggart took charge of this meeting before the arrival of Mr. Moody. The subject of a building for young men was presented and, with the view of giving each person an opportunity to subscribe according to his ability, blank cards were distributed, to be afterwards collected by the ushers. Rev. S. A. Taggart and Mr. Moody made eloquent pleas for immediate and generous responses. "I am not asking it for myself, or the Association, but for you," said Mr. Moody.

The regular sermon of the evening was preached from the text, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."—Galatians 6:7.

The speaker began his address in his usual direct manner. People, he said, know very well what it is to be deceived, and it is not necessary to explain that part of the text. The truth of the declaration of the text no infidel could deny. That a man shall reap what he sows is a law which proves itself in the experience of every person. A man shall reap what he sows and reap in large measure. That the harvest shall be the same in kind as the seed, was illustrated by innumerable instances taken from the Bible and from ordinary experience. A very forcible illustration is Jacob, who is so often held up by skeptics as an instance of a man who sinned without being punished. The reaping is sometimes immediate and is sometimes long delayed, but always sure. Jacob deceived his aged father by personating Esau and securing the birthright. When Jacob was old his sons deceived him by saying that his beloved son, Joseph, was dead. Each deception was much in the same way. In the first instance Jacob covered his hands with the skin of a kid to make them more like those of his brother; in the second, Joseph's many-colored coat was dipped in the blood of a kid to convince Jacob that his son had become the prey of a wild beast. David was another illustration of a man who reaped the whirlwind. The talk throughout was exceedingly forcible and held the undivided attention of the very large congregation.

We are informed that fifteen persons were converted, as a result of this meeting and the earnest prayers and exhortations that were made. Another subscription of $1,000 toward a building fund was found among the cards in the collection—making $3,000 in large subscriptions, in addition to many other smaller subscriptions.

[Communicated.]

A Woman Talks about Women.

"No use talking to women about affairs of government, &c, They dont know anything!"

Our ears once caught this expression from one of the "Lords of Creation" and, we thought, "pretty lords indeed" are men, if they imagine we cannot read, think and learn, so well as they; and, we would say, dont measure the wisdom of our sex, by those of your limited acquaintance. True, we do not vote, build bonfires or become owlish over victory: yet, we cannot, neither do we live and enjoy the blessings of the great Commonwealth without knowing something of its foundation and motive power; and, did we have the opportunity notwithstanding our respect for you, (as there are many noble exceptions), we would explode some of your Legislative doings into fragments without the aid of dynamite. We would then give Civil Service our careful attention leaving worthies remain in office and casting unworthies overboard. Soon—very soon we should find whether the South was a solid or a liquid, and administer its proper nourishment. We are aware that our ranks are dotted with the rude and illiterate, but, oh! we shudder, when we think of the quality of men found in every clime. Ah! in future be careful "of whom you speak, and how and when and where." Think, read and you will find that most men owe their greatness to woman, to faithful, noble, loving mothers, That we do not compete with you in physical strength, but we do in mental.

That we do not hew down stately forests or make the mines of earth yeild up their treasures, yet, we do that which is mightier far. A WOMAN.

—There has been a multiplicity of religious meetings in Bellefonte of late, the aim of which is to make men better and to convert sinners. They lead us to meditate upon the proper instrumentalities to be used to effect the salvation of man. We have always believed that the fault is with the professing Christians and we believe we know what would result in the conversion of every man, woman and child in Bellefonte within two weeks time. We believe that if every so called Christian would abstain for two weeks from every unkind or dishones act would exert himself to aid those around him; would display kindness and sympathy, and every Christian virtue, and would let fall a word of admonition at favorable times, that active earnest faith would be evinced, and God would bless it abundantly. Meetings are all right and are absolutely necessary, but without this living faith which controls our lives, our Christian profession is a burlesque. If Bellefonte can be converted within two weeks it is surely worth trying.

In Memoriam.

We are requested to publish the following "lines on the death of Harvey William Hite, who died very suddenly of heart disease on the evening of October 20, at the early age of 20 years, 5 months and 10 days." They were written by his sister.

Dearest brother thou hast left us;
Here thy loss we deeply feel
But we know God hath bereft us
And He can all our sorrows heal.

Yet again we hope to meet thee
When the storms of life have fled;
And in Heaven above to greet thee
Where no farewell tears are shed.

In the bloom of life thou wast called away;
How sad it was to part with thee;
To know we cannot see thee more,
With all thy sport and glee.
We know thou canst not come to us—
But we can come to thee.

Oh! how we miss thee, brother;
No more we'll hear thy voice.
That voice is hushed forever,
To follow thee, will be our choice.

—The Altoona Times gives the following information about the telephone service, which impresses us as quite striking and novel: "A new device has been invented for the telephone station. They are so constructed that a person wishing to use them enters a box, and on depositing a nickel in the fare box a clock indexes his entrance and he is permitted to occupy the box for five minutes. At the expiration of that time he must leave the box, or, if he remains, he must pay a second fare. Should he decline paying the fare he is bolted within and the machine telephones the fact to the central office. Then he must remain until released by a messenger from said office. These boxes are designed for cigar shops, drug stores, and such places accessible to the public."

—The many friends of Miss B. M. Daley, sister of J. A. Daley, of Curtin township, will be pleased to learn that she has arrived safely at home, after an absence of over seven years in the far West. Most of the time she spent in Kansas and Colorado, traveling from the former to the latter State in the saddle across the plains, a distance of over four hundred miles, on an Indian pony. She has witnessed frontier life in all its different phases, and can converse very entertainingly about what she has seen and experienced. She pronounces Kansas to be the "garden spot" of America.

—Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, departed on the 10.35 a. m. train yesterday.

Personal Penciilings.

Rev. Mr. Hicks, of Howard, attended the Moody meetings on Tuesday.

James Hughes, Jr., was confined to the house last week with a severe cold.

Mr. Charles Flint, of Clearfield county, is visiting his parents in this place.

Mrs. W. E. Burchfield, of Philipsburg, is delighting her friends with a visit.

Mr. Will Hastings went at 10.35 Friday morning to Philadelphia to remain a few days.

Rev. R. Crittenden, the Sunday-school missionary, returned home on Friday evening.

Cyrus Gordon, Esq., a prominent legal gentleman from Clearfield, is visiting his relatives here.

John P. Harris placed his autograph on the register of the Park Hotel, Williamsport, on Friday.

Mrs. R. A. Kinsloe, of Bristol, Tenn., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Rankin, in this place.

Hon. James P. Coburn contributed his presence to the vast audience that listened to Moody Tuesday evening.

Mr. Samuel Hines, a resident of Hecla Furnace, was one of the numerous visitors to Bellefonte on Tuesday.

Mr. Herbert Butts, who now resides in Altoona, is visiting his relatives in Bellefonte, having arrived on Saturday night.

Rev. Robert Hamill, D.D., of Oak Hall, was among the interested listeners in the Presbyterian pulpit Tuesday evening.

Captain W. C. VanValin's frank, open countenance and soldierly figure were noticed among the auditors at the Moody meetings.

Miss Fannie E. Gray, managing editress of the Daily News, departed Friday morning at 10.35 o'clock for a brief visit in Philadelphia.

Miss Laura Rankin, of Orbisonia, who has been visiting among friends in Bellefonte, departed on Tuesday, November 3, for Philadelphia.

Rev. J. P. Hudson, of Williamsport, one of the delegates who attended the recent meeting of the Presbyterian Synod, is 81 years of age.

Mr. George Weaver, Jr., of Philipsburg, arrived in Bellefonte Saturday evening and spent Sunday with his friends here. He departed Monday morning.

We are informed that our friend, Mr. Will Speer, went to Youngstown, Ohio, on Thursday, with the expectation of accepting a position of some sort in that city.

Mr. J. C. Curtin has put a very handsome new milk wagon on the road. He is a popular dispenser of the lacteal fluid and is up to the mark in the way of enterprise every time.

C. G. McMillen, Esq., proprietor of the Brockerhoff House, has dropped the title of "mine host" for a week or two, and will recreate as a gentleman of leisure among friends in Dayton, Ohio.

Mr. Henry Thompson, of Howard, attended all the Moody meetings, and was so much delighted with them that he made it one of his first duties Wednesday to step in and say a pleasant word to ye editor.

Mr. Hileman, the gentleman who officiates so competently over the destinies of the store at the nail works, has been in Williamsport for several days past. He was called there to attend the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Dr. B. H. Detwiler.

Dr. C. B. Bush, of Buffalo Run, this county, has located in Osceola, to practice his profession. A fine opportunity awaits him there to take the place of Dr. J. Findley Bell, who has gone to take charge of the insane department in Wards Island Hospital, N. Y.

Our tall and genial friend, Mr. John A. Daily, of Curtin township, spent Tuesday in Bellefonte. He mingled with the vast congregations in the Presbyterian church, presented the DAILY NEWS reporter with the largest apple in Centre county, and made every body he met feel cheerful.

—So many events have occurred since our Saturday's issue that we have not space for a mention of all the religious services of Sunday. Rev. Prof. D. M. Wolf preached instructively on Sunday morning in the Reformed church; the theme of Rev. Chas. T. Steck's morning discourse was "Hope;" Rev. John Robinson discoursed in the morning on "Pride" and in the evening on the "Deceitfulness of the Heart;" Rev. M. K. Foster preached from I Cor. 3:6 and 7.

—Stuart Rogers has been anxious to come to Bellefonte ever since he, unintentionally, disappointed a very large audience several years ago. He is the finest reciter and impersonator in America. His usual price is very high, but he has made a reduction in favor of Bellefonte, to enable Gregg Post to procure him. His entertainment will occur on the 21st instant.

—Mrs. George Rhoades, who lives on Half Moon hill, is, we regret to learn, quite ill with pleurisy of the heart.

DIED.
